U. S. to Offer World Plan for Military Observation Posts

International System Aimed To Prevent Surprise Attacks

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration is drafting a proposal for a system of international military observation posts to be set up on both sides of the Iron Curtain in Europe as a safeguard against surprise attack.

It is understood officials are thinking about proposing 20 to 30 posts on each side at key transportation centers where unusual military activity by either Soviet or U.S. forces might be detected.

President Johnson announced in his State of the Union message Wednesday that "we shall make new proposals" on disarmament issues when the 17-nation disarmament conference reopens negotiations at Geneva in two weeks.

Agency Works on Proposals

Work is going forward on the proposals in the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency under the immediate direction of William C. Foster, agency director. He is expected to head the U.S. delegation in the new round of negotiations beginning Jan. 21.

Officials have said the U.S. proposals will deal with familiar issues in new ways which they hope will enlarge the possibility of agreement with the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, disarmament experts of the United States, Britain, Canada, and Italy are undertaking consultations aimed at coordinating their policies. France, whose chair in the conference is empty because President Charles de Gaulle decided not to participate, is an observer in the consultations.

Idea Not New

countries another and a group of smaller nations the third. The observation posts idea has been talked about by both Russia and the United States for several years. U.S. policy-makers consider it one of the most hopeful possibilities and one which would contribute substantially to a further reduction of tensions and war fears in the world.

Present U.S. thinking, pending final decisions by the President, is that the observation post plan should provide for U.S. and Soviet military observers on both Soviet and U.S. territory with the participation of officers from other countries, as might be desirable depending on the other territories involved.

Fail to Agree On Succession To Presidency

Ike, Truman Differ On Elective and Appointive Officers

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman disagree over whether an elected or an appointed official should be next in line for the presidency after a vice president succeeds to the office.

The two men, along with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., discussed the complexities of presidential succession in a series of filmed interviews, televised Wednesday night by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Eisenhower said that when a vice president succeeds to the office of president on the latter's death, the next in line for the top job should be the secretary of state, an appointed official.

Law Changed in 1947
This was the system until 1947 when the law was changed with the backing of then President Truman.

Under the change, still in effect, next in line of succession after the vice president is the speaker of the House, followed by the president pro-tem of the Senate, both elected officials.

Truman said he did not believe that any president should have the right to appoint his successor, as he would have if the secretary of state was second in line. He said he thought the successor should be a man who holds an elective office.

Truman said an even better method would be to have the Electoral College fill the job of vice president after the latter succeeds to the presidency.

Nixon agreed. He said the vice president who becomes president should be authorized to convene the Electoral College within 30 days to fill the vacancy.

4 Children Die In Michigan Fire
SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—Four children—left alone while their mother went across the street to make a telephone call—died when a fire swept through their home Wednesday night, police said.

The victims were Keith Yancor, 3, and three sisters, Joan, 5, Marjorie, 1, and Melissa, 2, he depended upon to accompany them.

The importance of the long-pulled them through the front range missiles to the defense door after smashing out of this country and the evaluation of their effectiveness by our leading military authorities is indicated by the strong support dropped tissue paper into a port given by the Joint Chiefs, lighted gas range being used to of Staff to the missile program.

Earlier, Mrs. Oswald told friends she hoped to stay here and get a job. In Russia, she worked as a pharmacist when she met Oswald.

An immigration spokesman said Wednesday she would have to live in the United States five years before being eligible for citizenship.

He Makes Dogs Bark Back at Their Owner
HAYWARD, Calif. (AP)—John Tolton has struck back with electronic vengeance.

A few months ago, Tolton complained to Hayward police that dogs owned by next-door neighbor Dominic Magri were disturbing him by their howling and barking. Nothing happened.

So Tolton tape-recorded the doggy noises. And, at 3 a.m. night after night, he played them back at the Magri dogs.

The Magri dogs don't bark. They just listen to the recording of their own barking. Now Magri has complained to police. Not to get Tolton arrested, he explains, but "just to set the record straight."

Senate Group Acts to Speed Up Consideration Of Reduction in Levies

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Congress pressed by President Johnson to cut taxes, enact civil rights legislation and war on poverty is unlimbering slowly. In a 41-minute State of the Union speech interrupted a record 80 times by applause, Johnson told the legislators Wednesday the nation can move forward under a new $97.9 billion budget to provide the greatest federal impetus to social welfare in history.

Reaction to the President's pledge of less spending and fewer federal employees was generally favorable. But it was tinged with bipartisan skepticism that the series of health, education, housing and job training programs he proposed could be carried out under a reduced budget.

Several Republicans predicted there would be a wide "performance gap" between what the President asked and Congress produces.

Group Works on Tax Cut
Urged by Johnson to move expeditiously, the Senate Finance Committee stepped up slightly the ponderous pace of its consideration of the House-passed $11 billion tax cut the President said is needed now "to keep the country moving."

It approved two provisions: a reduction in corporate rates from the current top of 52 per cent to 50 per cent for 1964 and to 48 per cent in 1965; a minimum standard deduction of $200 for the taxpayer plus $100 for each exemption including himself.

Civil Rights Hearing
But March 1 appears a better bet for completion of congressional action than the Feb. 1 date he spoke of.

The House Rules Committee already had scheduled a start of hearings today on the civil rights bill Johnson said poses a "moral issue."

The measure probably will reach the House floor early next month. Passage there would send it to the Senate, where it would have to await disposition of the tax bill.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., an old political ally, put Johnson on notice that he will face an all-out fight from Southerners determined to try to filibuster the measure to death in the Senate.

McNamara Hits At Goldwater

Terms Senator Irresponsible in Criticizing Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara accused Sen. Barry Goldwater today of damaging national security and being politically irresponsible in saying that U.S. long-range missiles are not reliable.

McNamara released a statement taking issue with assertions made by Goldwater while the Arizona senator, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was campaigning in New Hampshire. Goldwater said cuts in defense spending proposed by President Johnson would put too much reliance on the nation's missile forces.

Senator's Comment
Goldwater said intercontinental ballistic missiles are not reliable, adding:

"I can tell you that, and I'll probably catch hell for it." McNamara's statement of reply was read to reporters by Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester.

It said: "Sen. Goldwater's reported statement that the U.S. long-range missiles are not dependable is completely misleading, and, in fact, is completely irresponsible, and, in fact, is completely irresponsible, and, in fact, is completely irresponsible."

"There is no information, classified or otherwise, to support the false implication that our long-range missiles cannot be depended upon to accomplish their mission."

The importance of the long-pulled them through the front range missiles to the defense door after smashing out of this country and the evaluation of their effectiveness by our leading military authorities is indicated by the strong support dropped tissue paper into a port given by the Joint Chiefs, lighted gas range being used to of Staff to the missile program.

Reform Program Mapped Out by Viet Nam's Chief

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Nguyen Ngoc Tho today outlined a reform program aimed at summoning all national forces to win the U.S.-backed war against the Communist Viet Cong.

In a State of the Nation address. Tho called for discipline and unity among his people. He promised them little. He said democratic liberty must wait.

"Resources of the country are highly limited and have been depleted and wasted in the past nine years," Tho said. "Pressing claims of the people who yearn for democratic liberty cannot yet be satisfied."

One major reform cited by Tho has been urged by American authorities in Viet Nam. That is what Tho termed "a thorough reorganization of the armed forces to establish a command system appropriate to wartime use to the maximum all armed forces in pacification operations."

Soviet Censors Omit All References to Explosives Outback
MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet censors today deleted all references to President Johnson's outback in U.S. production of atomic explosives and his challenge to Russia to follow suit.

Soviet reports of the President's message to Congress Wednesday instead emphasized his remarks about maintaining American defense capabilities on a high level.

Trapped Man Saved From Mine in Idaho

MACKAY, Idaho (AP)—Stanley Johnson, a miner trapped for 27 hours in a 12-by 6-foot cubicle 1,153 feet underground, was rescued Wednesday.

He was cold, tired and a little weak—the temperature in the underground cell was around 40 degrees—but otherwise okay.

Taken to a hospital in nearby Arco, the doctors looked him over, gave him food and sent him to bed.

Custer County Sheriff Glen Reed who drove Johnson, 38, a bachelor, to the hospital said, "He didn't have much to say. He was pretty cold but had enough room to keep moving around in there so he could keep from freezing."

Afraid to Blast
Justice of the Peace Art Wright of Mackay said "they got him out by drilling a series of holes through a petition from another shaft, then chipping out the area between the holes. They couldn't blast because of the cave-in danger."

"He was trapped around one o'clock yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon. He and Harold Lambert were drilling into the bottom of a slope—an old ore pocket—but didn't know it was that close."

"When they hit bottom, tons of fill came down. It trapped Harold for about 30 minutes, but he dug out. Stanley couldn't—there was too much."

High-Level Talks Aim at Solution of Malaysia Issue

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—A high-level meeting with Malaysian officials to find a peaceful solution to the dispute between Malaysia and Indonesia is emerging as the goal of current talks between Indonesian President Sukarno and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal, highly placed sources indicated today.

The sources, who refused to be identified, said the Philippines and Indonesia do not regard the present situation as an insurmountable obstacle to revival of Maphilindo, the association that Indonesia and the Philippines formed with Malaysia last summer before it became the nucleus of the Malaysian Federation.

Robert Kennedy to Keep Cabinet Post, Help Johnson Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy says he will stay on as attorney general and do whatever President Johnson, President or the Democratic National Committee—feels will be helpful.

Kennedy, until today, had made no statements for publication about his plans since an assassin took his brother's life in Dallas Nov. 22.

Led Brothers' Drive
"I'll certainly stay on through the election," he said in an interview. "I don't know what time I'm going to do when that's over." Kennedy deftly engineered his high-backed red leather chair in the fifth-floor chambers of the Justice Department had in 1960. Would he do as much for Johnson, who fought John F. stantly. "Nobody's said any-thing to me about it yet, but I'll do whatever anybody—the behind Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota—for the vice presidential nomination."

"My one interest now is becoming attorney general," he said. However, he was obviously pleased that the Democratic county chairmen canvassed in the poll thought so well of him. He was more outgoing about recent reports that President Johnson has his eye on Kennedy's brother-in-law, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, for the vice presidential slot.

"He's a very able figure," Kennedy said of Shriver. "He turned in one of the outstanding jobs of President Kennedy's administration in directing the Peace Corps. He would certainly be qualified for the job," the record straight."

He looks tanned, healthy and more relaxed than he has since that fateful day. He has had time to rest, ski, be with his family and collect his thoughts. # Danger to U. S. Dollar Stability Late in 1964

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The remarkable stability in our living cost, which you and I have enjoyed for five full years could be seriously challenged as 1964 ages. For the first time since the war booms ended in the late 1950s there are signs that a new cycle of moderate inflation could start emerging by the end of this year, and here's why.

First, the tax cuts we're to get in 1964-65 will give us billions of dollars of extra spending power and we'll spend most of the dollars. The federal government also will be running a big budget deficit and thus will be pouring many more billions into the economic stream than it will be taking out in taxes.

Although there is an abundant supply of most goods and services, these are forces which will put upward pressure on prices.

Organized Labor
Second, organized labor has made it clear that in 1964, The United Auto Workers' Walter Reuther intends to lead a drive for a breakthrough on the cash wage front. The Teamsters' James Hoffa is set to fight for a national contract in trucking and for larger cash wage increases.

Since 1958, businessmen generally have been absorbing annual wage increases without boosting prices, because the rise in output per worker (productivity) has kept pace with the rise in wages. But if this situation reverses in 1964, the danger of a new wage-price (or price-wage) upswing will be clear.

Third, corporations across the country have been steadily eating into the margin of their unused plant capacity during these 35 months of sustained business expansion.

The slack in their operations has been a key factor operating against price hikes, but if the tax cuts do spur factories to near capacity, the basis will be laid for price increases.

Raw Materials
Fourth, world raw material prices have been firming and the long slide since the Korean war seems to have been arrested at last.

Higher prices for basic commodities are bound to put pressure on prices of manufactured goods right up the line. So far, most price boosts are viewed as just healthy indications of a strong economy. Admittedly, the government's consumer price index — our index of living cost changes — has been climbing around 1½ per cent a year give or take a fraction) and is now at an all-time high.

But a living cost increase of well under 2 per cent a year is considered "reasonable" in a business upturn. The index of wholesale prices has scarcely budged in six years. Rarely in the 20th century have industrial prices remained so stable for so long a period.

Cost Advance
While it costs you around $10.75 to buy the marketbasket of goods and services which $10 bought in 1957-59, that's not a significant living cost advance considering the span of time. While the $1 which bought 100 cents of goods in 1957-59 buys only 93 cents worth now, that's hardly a major erosion in our currency's buying power over a six-year span. What's more, most of the rise in the consumer price index has been due to increases in prices of such services as medical and personal care, rising expenses of operating a house, climbing costs of eating away from home.

Now, though, there are danger signals in the combination of increasing consumer and business spending, massive tax cuts, stiffer union demands for wage boosts, a big budget deficit.

Federal Reserve Board chairman Martin is saying it plainly: "Inflation is a very real problem."

Gloom Concerning Milk Consumption Called Unjustified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Dairy Association said that facts about milk consumption do not justify much of the gloom that has persisted in the dairy industry in recent years.

This gloom, it said in a report, grew in part out of the fact that milk production has been in excess of market demands, with surpluses going into government hands under a dairy product price support program.

"In 1963, dairy farmers had a commercial demand for milk that was over 10 billion pounds higher than in 1950," the report said. "But the amount of milk marketed by farmers in 1963 increased about 18 billion pounds over the 1950 level, thus creating the pressure of a sizable surplus pushing against any price improvement."

lem." The President's chief economic adviser, Dr. Walter Heller, is warning businessmen that "the American public would have little sympathy" if they should "take advantage of expanding markets to boost their prices in the light of record and rising profits."

President Johnson is likely to come out with some tough talk about inflation in his major messages to Congress this month and he's ready to back up the Federal Reserve if it slams on the credit brakes to prevent, as Martin says, "inflation getting ahead of us again as it did in 1955."

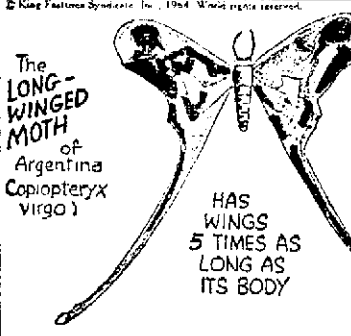

A creeping rise in prices we can accept as a penalty for prosperity. More than that we cannot tolerate in this fiercely competitive world, and every responsible American should know it by this time.

Intricacies of Brain Must Go Unanswered

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. gets old this way, and some of us are not. Dear Dr. Molner: My sister is 88 and has developed a singing voice in her head, always a sharp man's voice. It isn't imaginary as she can sing along with him. The songs are all old ones, mostly those our family sang when she was young.

What do you suggest?—M.J.J. The brain is a very intricate mechanism. In our old age (and "old age" varies a lot, among us) the speed of the brain may slow down. Or it may retain essentially all of its speed until the day we die. Or it may suffer some moderate derangement, so that we cannot wholly depend upon it.

Some of us begin to lose the knack of remembering recent events, while maintaining our memory of the things we learned earlier in life. Likewise some of us may "remember" — and think to be real — things which we heard or saw or knew many years ago.

Your sister does not really hear a man's voice singing, although to her it is real. The fact that she can "sing along" with this voice does not mean that she hears it, but only that she thinks she does.

Let It Go — and hope — that she enjoys "hearing" the voice. And there is no reason why you should not let her do so. Just say "yes, isn't that nice," and let it go at that.

Some of us are lame at 68, some short of breath, some fat and tired. Some of us "hear" things that are in our memories only. And some of us are dead.

Let us not rail against getting old, because that does no good; nor complain because one of us sister to think that she "hears" is usually fatal, and rather quickly, too. It cannot be cured.

Happiness is the great common denominator of what is meant — periodic injection of good in life. So keep her happy. B vitamins — the condition can be kept under excellent control.

Pernicious Anemia indefinitely. There is no reason why a girl with this treatment could not have children. How long can a Mrs. G. T. The milder transperson live with it? What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's help-in coin to cover cost of printing

Casserole Cookery for Winter Meals

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

Outside your kitchen window the view may be dreary and winter-dirty, but inside the fragrant aroma of a bubbling casserole baking in the oven can make the room a cozy, cheerful glad-to-be-alive place. It's really remarkable how foods and their preparation can affect a household and all the people in it... the gloomiest day and the growliest person will brighten immediately with the right foods and tantalizing aromas.

There are, of course, more practical reasons for serving casserole dishes in midwinter... one is plain budget economy. Another is that casseroles are wholesome foods... popular dishes which nearly everyone enjoys and thus the diner gets the nutrients needed. Casseroles are convenient dishes to make with variations endless.

Casserole cookery has been an important part of all cultures ever since man first accidentally... or on purpose... dropped both meat and vegetables into a common pot. Through the centuries good cooks everywhere have changed and adapted basic "meal-in-a-pot" recipes to their own tastes and have thus created such dazzling dishes as Russian Beef Stroganoff, Spain's Paella, Chicken Cacciatore from Italy and many different ragouts (stews) from various parts of France.

Flavorful casseroles come about by design... the little touch of genius or extra effort that makes any cooking a truly creative project.

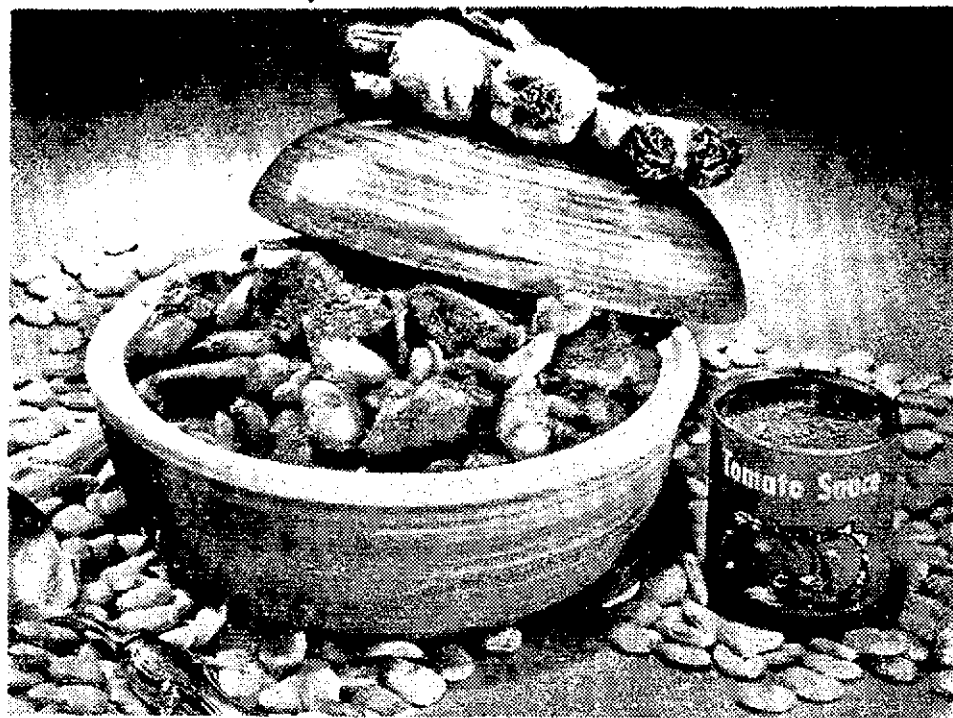

Experienced or new-comer, any cook can become an expert at casseroles. Start with an imaginative appraisal of food on hand. Besides leftover meats and vegetables that provide good foundations for a one-meal dish, check for unusual items that add special interest. These include such foods as mushrooms, nuts, bits and pieces of cheese, pimiento-stuffed and ripe olives, crunchy water chestnuts and chow mein noodles, dried fruits or canned ones.

Do your marketing with an eye to supplementing foods on hand for imaginative casseroles. Remember that sauces can make a dish a gourmet candidate... and that toppings can add certain special touch which sets it apart.

With these hints in mind, here's to a kitchen fling with casserole cookery. These dishes don't have to be tasteless, ordinary or repetitive. It all depends upon the cook. Here are a few unusual recipes to start a whole new world of cooking.

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup tomato sauce
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Cheese Pastry
Brown beef and green pepper in large skillet. Add garlic powder; mix well. Stir in flour and salt. Add tomato sauce; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in celery and sauce; bring to a boil. Pour into 8-inch square baking dish. Top with Cheese Pastry. Bake in 400-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes.

Leftover Lamb Roast, flavorful canned tomato sauce and dried limas combine to make this hearty, delicious and rib-sticking Lima-Lamb Casserole.

In This Convenience Dish, canned spaghetti and meat balls form the casserole base. Sour cream and cottage cheese are mixed together and ribboned beside the spaghetti to make an attractive dish with the meat balls in the center. Bake it a short time in a moderate oven and a new dish is created.

CHEESE PASTRY

1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
3/4 cup shredded processed American cheese
Cold water (3 to 6 tablespoons)
Sift together flour and salt; cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Stir in cheese. Sprinkle with water, using enough to make dough stick together, mixing lightly. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Press dough together. Roll out 1/4 inch thick. Cut into 8-inch square and cover hamburger mixture. Cut any remaining pastry into half-inch strips; arrange lattice style on top of pastry square.

3 small onions, halved
1 cup diced celery
1 small green pepper, cut in strips

Attitude Towards Retarded Reflects Ignorant Parents

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some friends of ours have a retarded son. The boy is 10 years old, but his mentality is at the four- or five-level. He is usually pleasant and well-behaved, but it is apparent that the child is mentally deficient.

The problem is the boy's 16-year-old sister. She is ashamed of her brother and fearful that if her friends see him it will hurt her socially. She insists that the boy be taken from school—in case she brings a friend. When she has a date the retarded child must be kept out of sight.

The parents want to be fair to the girl, but they want to be fair to the boy, too. They don't know what to do. Can you help?—Newark

Dear Newark: The attitude of the 16-year-old girl is a sorry reflection of ignorant parents. The daughter should have been taught years ago that her brother needs love and kindness. To treat the little fellow as something to be hidden is shameful. Write for literature to the Nation for Mentally Retarded Children, 386 Park Avenue, So., New York 16, New York. The parents, as well as the daughter need educating.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married twelve years and we have four lovely children. My husband causes me more aggravation than all the kids put together. My biggest complaint with him is that I never know when he will be home for supper.

I used to phone him at work every day at 4:15 but the fellows at the plant needed him about the calls and nicknamed him "Mr. Hen-Pecked," so he ordered me to cut it out. He refuses to call me for fear someone will hear him.

He could be home easily by 6:00 o'clock if he wanted to, but more often than not he stops at a tavern and has a drink—or three or four—with the boys.

The kids like to eat with their dad so sometimes we wait as long as 8:00 o'clock. By then the kids are starved and it keeps me in the kitchen till 10 o'clock.

Is there a solution?—24-Hour Chef.

'Dear Chef: Reach a simple understanding with your man. If he's not home by 6:30 have dinner without him.

Any man who'd rather booze it up in a tavern than have dinner with his family has no right to complain about a cold dinner — alone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from "Concerned Family" made me furious. So they don't want their well-heeled, socially prominent mother, age 54, to marry a department store clerk because it might damage her in the eyes of her friends? If she listens to them she is out of her mind.

I'm a widow, just about her age. I have my own city apartment and country place, a car and everything money can buy. But money can't buy the things I really want.

My children are happily married so I leave them alone which is as it should be. I try to keep busy but I miss the male companionship I enjoyed for 30 years.

I hope this woman ignores her selfish, snobbish family and marries the department store clerk. And if he has a friend, I'd like to meet them — Sick of Solitaire.

Dear S of S: Sorry, I can't check out the friend angle for you, but your letter is a good one and I hope for the widow's sake, that she follows her heart.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1964)

A Lovelier You

'Resortful' Tips

A mature lovely writes: I am soon to embark on a winter vacation. Finding a becoming bathing suit is my problem. Styles seem to be getting briefer, and what I need is something that comes down to the ankles. My legs are too heavy and soft for all that exposure. There are spider veins around my ankles, too. Those troubles have kept me away from beaches, but now I'd like to get into the swim and don't know how to manage it gracefully.

The solution comes in three parts. 1. Select a dressmaker type of suit with a moderately full skirt. The flare of the skirt causes the legs to appear slimmer. For more of the same, lower the hem just one inch. A greater drop gives a matronly look to a suit. Heaven forbid! 2. Get to work at once on some legline trimmers, and continue performing in vacation land. Here's a most resultful routine. Lie, back down, on floor and raise legs perpendicular to it. Keeping knees stiff, ankle length beach dress? It's move left leg five inches forward and right leg five inches ever was!

Legline Trimmers. Then without stopping, briskly repeat those movements for heavy legs, send for my new thirty counts. Now fling legs apart, sidewise, tains spot reducing exercises to full extension—hold for five that will meet your individual counts. Next quickly criss-cross needs, whether for thighs, knees, legs ten times—left leg over calves or ankles, or for contour right, right over left, so thighs ing your entire legline. White brush. Rest and repeat twice. Mary Sue Miller in care of this 3. Camouflage spider veins self-addressed envelope and 5 der, made for the purpose cents in coin to cover handling.

SHOE SHOP IN THE AFTERNOON

PLAN AN AFTERNOON trip to shop for shoes because your feet can fluctuate as much as a size in width and often half a size in length from morning to night. And, to get the proper fit, be sure your big toe has half an inch to wiggle around in and the heels fit snugly in back.

You'll know soon enough if one of your feet is larger than the other. This often happens when you're growing up so be sure to get the size that fits the larger foot. Leather shoes are one of the best buys because leather actually breathes—has lots of stretch and holds up in all kinds of weather.

Traditional Designs that trend toward the classic are distinguishing marks of the January Home Furnishings market this week in Chicago. The trend toward over-size pieces is apparent in the coffee table above, detailed with a Queen Anne leg. Viewed from any angle, the smooth line of the cabriole leg flows from a curved apron to a small club foot, authentic to the Georgian-Colonial era. The three walnut dowels, once a structural necessity, are carried through decoratively in the 54 inch table. Sofas shown at the market also tend to be longer, with some going 100 inches in length. Below is a double door commode that repeats the Queen Anne styling, with a graceful-line apron and curved leg. Decorative dowels are again used at the corners as a handsome contrasting surface decoration. The mitre-panel of each door gives the look of craftsmanship usually associated with high priced furnishings, although both items fall in the middle range bracket.

Release Goodies, Shun Stew

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Many years ago a monkey who had never learned to play bridge stuck his hand into a jar and filled it so full of nuts that he could not take his hand out. Result: monkey stew. This couldn't have happened if he had been a regular reader of this column.

Assume that the ordinary sort of monkey is playing the South hand. He plays the jack of clubs from dummy and ruffs East's queen. (A very able ape would throw a heart instead of ruffing, but that is another story.)

Our simian friend now draws all of the trumps, discarding three low hearts from dummy. Then he leads a diamond to East's ace.

East returns a low heart, and our declarer finds himself part of the stew. He can take the ace of hearts and both of dummy's high diamonds, but he cannot get out of dummy and back to his own hand for the last good diamond.

Reader Fares Better
The regular reader of this column would fare better because he would not hold so tight to dummy's diamonds. He would discard the K-Q-J of diamonds on the third, fourth and fifth trumps.

After drawing trumps, our reader would lead the ten of diamonds and continue the suit until East took the ace. If East returned a club, South would discard a heart. If East returned a heart, South would step up with the ace of hearts and cash the rest of the diamonds to score game and rubber.

Try this hand on your favorite partner and find out what kind of monkey he is.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: ♠ None. H Q J 7 2; D A 6 5 2; C A Q 5 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club. You have 13 points in high cards, and 3 points for the void suit, more than enough for an opening bid. Start with your longest suit.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

Dear Louise: My wife and I are at swords points over a problem of restaurant manners.

I claim it is necessary in an emergency, get the attention of a waiter or waitress by tapping the water glass with a knife. We dine out often and there is often argument over this. Will you please settle this by stating the correct way?

Louise Davis Answers:
Your wife is the winner. Glass tapping is taboo even if you get poor service from your waiter. The sound is annoying to other diners and my waiter will tell you that it is irritating. Your first move is to try to catch the waiter's eye. An experienced and conscientious one is on the alert and develops a second sense. A long, steady look often works like a charm. Then comes a polite "Please come hither" nod. If this method is unsuccessful, try to catch the eye of the head waiter or if necessary in an emergency, get the attention of a nearby waiter and say, "I'd appreciate it if you would ask our waiter to come to the table." Conditions being normal, the correct way to get service is to say, "Waiter." His ears are also attuned. Such a call is made quietly and unobtrusively and within hearing distance without yelling across other tables. Restaurant employees are human beings. A little consideration and patience go a long way.

Leap Year Tactics Bait All Bachelors

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Here it is Leap Year again, and millions of maidens are scheming against the peace of mind of millions of bachelors.
Many will land a man, but a lot of them won't.
What is the difference between those who will succeed and those who will fail?
The difference is between good, and bad feminine psychology.
Some girls look at the crop of unmarried males and are dismayed at the start.
"It's hopeless," say these girls. "All the best men are already married."
As a married man myself I can subscribe to the partial accuracy of this observation. But it reflects a defeatist attitude. Certainly it is true that on the whole married men are more attractive than bachelors. But they weren't born more attractive. They were made more attractive by the civilizing influence of the women they married.
Challenge Assured
A wise girl realizes that this is the real challenge of matrimony — to take a mediocre, scrubby, forlorn bachelor and build him into the better man only she can help him become.
It is bad psychology for a girl to let a marital prospect suspect that she is looking for a walk to the altar chiefly in order to escape the long daily trek to her job in the office. No man likes to feel that his main function in life is to buy pork chops and pincurls for a Lazy Jane.

Dress Pattern Jiffy Cut

What are some examples of good feminine psychology?
Well, first of all, don't overdo that "woman mystery" act, girls. Don't be too unapproachable. Let your fellow know pretty quickly that you're fond of him.
Remember that while no man wants to be smothered, they all hanker to be mothered a bit.
As the average employer is too busy to spend his entire day patting an employee on the back, the employee looks forward to getting at home the petting he doesn't get at the office.
He wants from a potential wife the security, encouragement and approval he doesn't receive from his boss on the job.
Tame Bachelor
Bachelors are wild things, and must be tamed with care.
The way to win a bachelor is to wine him and dine him and treat him with kindness and give him the feeling that life with you will be better and safer — above all — more comfortable, than life is without you.
If you do this, he'll eat out of your hand, never miss his lost freedom, let you mold him as you will. Then in some future Leap Year other single girls in his office will look at your husband and say:
"Gee, what chance have I got? All the best men are already married!"

Fashion Groups Vie In Style Previews

Couture Group Revives Oldies
BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Old fashions never die. They cropped up again and again at spring style previews here Tuesday.
Just how old the fashion was depended on the designers' mood. Most, like Ann Klein of Junior Sophisticates, still are enchanted with the roaring '20s when saucy hipster waists, flouncy skirts, and shoestring shoulder straps were the rage.
Borrowed from the sexy '30s are bias-shaped dresses that reveal every figure fault, as well as plunging necklines, and cascades of feathers and plumes. Jacques Tiffreau winked at this era in designing midnight black dinner gowns modeled for the House of Monte San-Pruzan.
Lacy Return
Chalk-striped dandy suits date to the Depression days — and bolder versions to the turn of the century. But filmy blouses with lacy bibs are out of great-grandmothers' family album.
But designer Vera Maxwell drove home the message that old clothes well-chosen may be worn 10 to 15 years without revealing their age.
Slash jackets, coats that ease over hips, classic sheaths with busby jackets, princess dresses, coachman and chesterfield coats—all took to the runways without looking a day older than the current collections.
Yet they were costumes garnered from the closets of Miss Maxwell's friends, and still in use, with a little hemming, for those many years.

Designers Show Evening Wear
BY MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP)— Full-length evening dresses in yards of floating printed chiffon and plain - color, linen - like silk - gauze were highlights of Tuesday's shows by Count Sarmis and Mollie Parnis of the American Designers Group.
Sarmis made much use of chiffon in prints that looked like butterfly wings. Bodices and sheath skirts were of printed silk twill with the full chiffon overskirts (one had 75 yards) of matching print.
Mollie Parnis, who commented on her own show, said she designs to help a woman catch, or keep, a man.
Waist, Bustline
Her designs were almost fitted, with seams and darts bringing the fabric in at the waist, and gathers emphasizing the bust.
For evening wear, Miss Parnis favored silk gauze in solid colors, usually white for the bodice, black for the long, slim skirt and a sewn-in belt in a bright accent color.
Miss Parnis, also showed suits, most of them three-piece, with matching or contrasting overblouses belted, tied or darted in at the waist.
A lengthy but interesting show by Ben Zuckerman emphasized his idea of the spring suit—wool and most often in white, ivory, beige, gray or apricot.
Zuckerman's suit jackets reached the skirts two or three inches below the waistline. Shoulders were squared, a few slightly padded, and sleeves were three-quarter or short.

Dr. Robert O'Boyle To Head Physicians' Group for Heart Fund
Dr. Robert O'Boyle, 3128 N. Oneida St., is physician chairman for the 1964 Heart Fund campaign.
The announcement was made by Dennis Herrling, city chairman for the drive scheduled for the month of February, culminating with Heart Sunday on Feb. 23.
A specialist in internal medicine, Dr. O'Boyle came to Appleton in October of 1962 after finishing his medical training at Presbyterian St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago. As physician chairman, he will advise on medical matters and be available to local organizations as a speaker on problems of the circulatory system.
Dr. O'Boyle emphasized the fact that public education is an important phase of the work done by the American Heart Association and receives 10.5 percent of the funds collected. Organizations interested in obtaining a speaker may send a card to the Heart Fund Office which opened this week in the Zuelke Building.

The Ailing House
Protect Concrete From Salt
BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Q: We have been living in our newly built home for almost six months. Is there any way we can protect the surface of the concrete walk and driveway from salt erosion? We understand salt is frequently used in the neighborhood to melt ice and snow during the winter.
A: To protect the concrete surface against salt erosion, apply the following, almost colorless, coating: Brush or spray on (pressure garden sprayer) a warm solution of equal parts of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. Because of the fire hazard, do not warm this over an open flame, but put the container with the solution into very hot water for about 20 minutes. Allow the coating to dry for eight hours, then apply a second coat. The coating should be applied when the outdoors temperature is above 50 degrees.
Q: When the cold or hot water faucets in my home are quickly turned off after drawing water, pipes in the basement make a rumbling, banging and rattling noise. The quicker the faucets are turned off, the louder the noise. If turned off very slowly, there is no sound. Will this cause any trouble? Could you explain the cause and suggest any remedy?
A: You have described a typical case of what is called "water hammer." Water flowing in a pipe possesses momentum (the desire to continue in motion). When the flow is stopped, the momentum must be taken up. Special water hammer-absorbing units or air chambers are available at plumbing supplies houses; have your plumber install this.
Or have him attach a vertical length of pipe, about three feet long and capped at one end, so that it extends above the highest point in the line in the house. Thus, whenever the moving column of water is brought to a stop, it will go beyond and into the dead end extension of pipe. This will compress the air in the pipe extension and bring the water to a gentle, silent stop, the same way air brakes work.
If not corrected, the vibration of pipes caused by water hammer subjects the system to extra wear and tear, often resulting in leaks in piping or tanks.

State's Delegation Split on Message

Criticism Expressed in Both Parties on Johnson's Failure To Outline Agriculture Moves

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Comment by members of the Wisconsin congressional delegation on President Johnson's State of the Union message today ranged from lukewarm to explosively critical.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said he was "pleased with the budget forecast, if actually achieved," and predicted that Republicans would support all efforts made by the administration to keep the federal spending within Mr. Johnson's figure of $97.9 billion.

The Green Bay congressman, who, as the ranking Republican on the tax-writing ways and means committee, made an unsuccessful attempt during consideration of this year's tax reduction bill to tie the reduction of taxes in with a budget ceiling of $98 billion, expressed the hope that Democrats in Congress would support the president's spending limitations as strongly as the Republicans would.

Tax Reduction

"If the president stays within the $98 billion budget, it will set the stage for a tax reduction," Byrnes said.

The congressman, who is chairman of the GOP House Policy Committee, commented dryly that "President Johnson's program for agriculture, in general, and for the dairy farmer in particular was conspicuous for its absence."

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, Watertown Democrat, who said Mr. Johnson's speech was "splendid," also mentioned that he "missed a discussion by the president of the agricultural situation, but would look forward later to a presidential message covering them."

Predicting that "generally the response both in Congress and throughout the country would be good," Kastenmeier added that the message "didn't contain many surprises insofar as reducing unnecessary federal expenditures was concerned."

"We all expected him to call for such key legislation as tax cutting, civil rights and medicare," the Wisconsin Democrat said.

Rep. William K. Van Pelt, R-Pond du Lac, flatly declared that the Johnson speech today was "received with the least enthusiasm of the 14 presidential State of the Union messages I have heard since being in Congress. I was surprised and disappointed he didn't mention something about agriculture."

Monotonous Speech
Rep. Vernon W. Thompson, R-Richland Center, thought it was a "monotonous recitation of every spending program conceived since the days of FDR."

"However, President Johnson recited these programs with a straight face, and claimed they could be financed for less than the present level of spending," continued the former governor. "The whole message was like a bowl of feathers. You just couldn't get your hands on it."

Republican Alvin O'Konski said the Democratic President "has outlined a program for America that has been long overdue" and that "this is the time for action, not words." O'Konski said he was ready to vote to put the Johnson program into effect immediately.

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire called the message "hard-hitting, concise and spe-

Lodge Gives Full Time to Viet Nam Job

Embattled Nation Depends on Rumored Candidate for Help

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge is wrapped up these days in Vietnamese affairs—probably more so than any American official who has served here in the nine years of the Vietnamese independence.

The New Englander has been on the job as U.S. ambassador nearly five months. President John F. Kennedy decided in June to name him, and Lodge came to Saigon Aug. 22.

There is no question that Lodge has stature in the eyes of Vietnamese officials. Some of the provisional government would collapse without Lodge's initiative and support. This may be an overestimate of Lodge's real authority here. U.S. foreign policy is often judged in terms of the individuals who carry it out.

Rep. Henry Reuss, also a Democrat, said he felt the part of the address outlining the attack on poverty was "particularly good." Reuss also said the president has shown "that he, rather than the military, is the boss when it comes to cutting out fat and waste."

Women Drivers Said to Drive Harder Bargain

CHICAGO (AP)—If the family car needs fixing, better let the wife bargain for the repair job.

An $80,000 survey released Wednesday apparently confirmed what automobile repairmen have suspected all along: Women drivers are harder to deal with than men.

And, says the survey, it's all because women don't understand things mechanical. But most of them freely discuss the repair job and auto parts.

The study was conducted by the Automobile Service Industry Association and the Automotive Advertiser's Council to determine why people buy auto parts and how they respond to specific advertising, said Al Joseph, study committee chairman.

"Many women do not feel any shame at their ignorance of things mechanical," explained Joseph. "They, therefore, have no reluctance to question their repair outlet on price, work done, the reason for a repair and the like."

But men, who are supposedly mechanically inclined, "are ashamed of their lack of knowledge and try to hide it," Joseph said.

It's because of this, said Joseph, that men are easier to do business with.

Johnson Accused Of Enlisting Leftists

Goldwater Attacks 'Theme of Hate' in President's Speech

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater accused President Johnson today of unwittingly enlisting in a leftist attack on American conservatives by charging that an atmosphere of hate was behind the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Tricky Talk
Goldwater called it "that hate theme" and said it is the "most, overdone, the most untruthful attack in the history of this country."

The Arizona senator, campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination, said he was sorry to see that Mr. Johnson felt he had to resurrect the hate theme in referring to President Kennedy's assassination in the State of the Union message Wednesday.

He said that is the theme stressed by Communists and radical columnists.

Goldwater also accused Johnson of tricky talk on federal spending.

"This Congress is truly economy minded," he said. "His administration is not." In a three-page critique of Johnson's message to Congress, he said the administration budget estimate of $97.9 billion actually means a spending increase of several billion dollars.

"The trick is that President Johnson is using the requested estimated figures of the Kennedy budget rather than the figures actually authorized by Congress," Goldwater said.

The Arizona senator said actual spending during the current year will total about $95 billion dollars. He said Congress has voted obligatory authority for about $101 billion, so Johnson's request for $103.8 billion also is several billion dollars over the figure for the year ending next June 30.

Obscure Issues
Dealing with the Kennedy assassination comments, Goldwater said "to simply say that it was an act of hate is an attempt to obscure the real issue."

He told a news conference that theme is "an attack that was started immediately after the trigger was pulled, against the conservative people in this country."

Military Cuts
He said the assassin "was a product of the sort of hate taught by Communists, not by Americans."

Goldwater said the Johnson message implies "that we are probably engaged in unilateral disarmament."

He said the message told Congress "that we are deliberately going to cut down on military strength because the Communists might regard it as provocative if we are too strong." The senator said cuts in defense spending would put too much reliance on the nation's missile forces. He said intercontinental ballistic missiles are not reliable.

"I can tell you that, and I'll probably catch hell for it," he said.

Goldwater said Wednesday Johnson "out liberalized every liberal since 1932" in his mes-

Use of American Combat Troops in Asia Pondered

BY MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—

The United States may soon have to choose between watching the Communists win in South Viet Nam or sending a major U.S. combat units.

The time for such a decision has not arrived but top American officials in Saigon are looking at the odds closely.

A possible middle ground is that Saigon's new military government will recover the initiative from the enemy guerrilla army.

U.S. Hopes
The United States has hopes that this can be done. Ranking

American observers say military setbacks are the result of confusion following the Nov. 1 coup which ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem. The situation will straighten out in a few months, they hope.

What if it doesn't?

No one has ready answers. Neutralization of South Viet Nam—advocated by French President Charles de Gaulle, by Cambodia and by the Communists—could be regarded as an indirect surrender to the Communists.

American Troops

Diplomats are weighing the advantages and disadvantages of using U.S. combat units.

The main advantage, many veteran U.S. officers here believe, would be to give Americans command initiative. There are 15,000 Americans here now.

State Temperance Movement Plans to Spend $34,000

MADISON (AP)—The United Temperance Movement of Wisconsin said Wednesday it had set a $34,200 budget to finance its 1964 campaign against drinking. The money will be raised by seeking contributions.

A spokesman said the movement plans classroom discussions to bring to high school students its message on the perils of alcoholic consumption. Speakers also will be assigned to address service and civic clubs and church congregations.

In their limited role as advisers and in support elements, many American officers and men feel handicapped.

35 Volunteers to Help Girl, 2, Save Her Eye

BY JAMES FORBES

IVANHOE, Calif. (AP)—Persons from 35 states, including a Texas convict, have offered to help save 2-year-old Margaret Snow's one remaining eye.

The left eye of the blonde youngster was removed last November because of cancer. Her physician, Dr. Max Goldstein of nearby Visalia, said there is a 50-50 chance the malignancy, retinoblastoma, may cost her remaining right eye.

Word of the child's plight was first spread across the nation two days before Christmas by The Associated Press. Since then more than $3,000 has been raised to pay for Margaret's medical expenses.

Among the offers of help were six persons who said they would be willing to give one of their eyes to Margaret. One such offer came from a convict at the Texas State Penitentiary in Huntsville, Bobby James Sickenberger, 30, who is serving up to 20 years for forgery and robbery by assault.

Transplant Impossible
Dr. Goldstein said such a transplant in Margaret's case would be impossible.

"If the cancer spreads," Dr. Goldstein said, "Margaret's entire eye will have to be removed. In an eye transplant, only the cornea can be transferred."

Doctors do not remove whole eyes from living persons for transplants.

But the doctor holds out some hope. He said with each passing week the chances grow slimmer the cancer will spread to the remaining eye.

If it does spread, Margaret will be flown to New York for special treatment.

Margaret lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Snow, and two small sisters. Snow earns $200 a month as a hardware store service man.

Youth Awake for 264 Hours on a Science Project

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—How does it feel after sleeping for the first time in 11 days?

"I feel like I've been asleep for 70 days," said 17-year-old Randy Gardner, stretching and rubbing his eyes. Actually he had slept 14 hours and 43 minutes, which isn't bad for the world's insomniac champion.

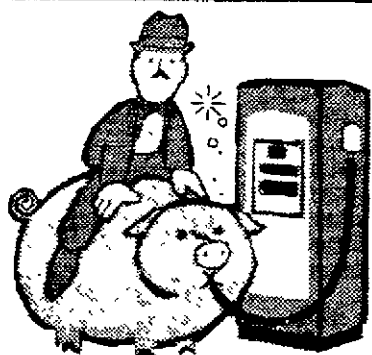

Randy won the title by staying awake for 264 hours at a San Diego naval hospital as part of a high school science project. The former record of 260 hours was set by a Honolulu disc jockey in 1959.

Said Dr. Fred Castro who examined him: "He's doing real well."

Charlie Tells Why Iroquois Hated French, Changed New World

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Some historians have averred that if Samuel de Champlain the early governor of French Canada (New France), had not taken sides in an ancient feud between the Indians of the region, all of North America would now be French.

This might have been true. The French once controlled all of North America from the Arctic Circle to New Orleans until the English wrested it from them in war. And — so say these historians — that war could not have been victorious for the English if the confederacy of the Five Indian nations (the Iroquois) had not sided with them. Hence, they say, North America would have been French.

Because that story is well enough recorded in serious histories it is not our point of discussion today. I would like to tell the story that caused the famed Indian feud. It has been handed down by word of mouth and is an Indian tradition. And, like many such traditions, there must be a basis of truth.

Once, centuries ago the Iroquois lived as congenial neighbors of the haughty Algonquians. The Iroquois were peaceful and they lived mainly by cultivating the soil and by fishing.

The Algonquians were nomadic. They lived by the hunt. Their skill in the chase was superior to that of the Iroquois, and they chided them good-naturedly for being homebodies.

Now and then just for the fun of it, these once-good neighbors would stage a contest. The young men of both families would challenge each other to a kind of a tournament of hunting and fishing. At the end of these tournaments, the neighbor which had caught the fewest fish and captured the least game would be obliged to skin and dress the fruits of the combined hunt. Then the two people would dine together as good neighbors often did.

Long-Time Winners

As one might guess, the Algonquians almost always won the tournament and the Iroquois almost always had to do the "squaw" work. It happened so often that at length the Iroquois declined to enter the ing at their discomfort and unhappiness.

That night when the tired hunters slept, the Algonquians rose and murdered every member of the Iroquois hunting party.

Demand Justice

When the truth of the foul deed was known, the wise elders of the Iroquois requested that the Algonquians punish the young men for those cowardly murders in the night. To this request the Algonquians answered with soft words and they evaded the issue. The evasive action didn't work, nor did it soothe the Iroquois, who were now beginning to anger.

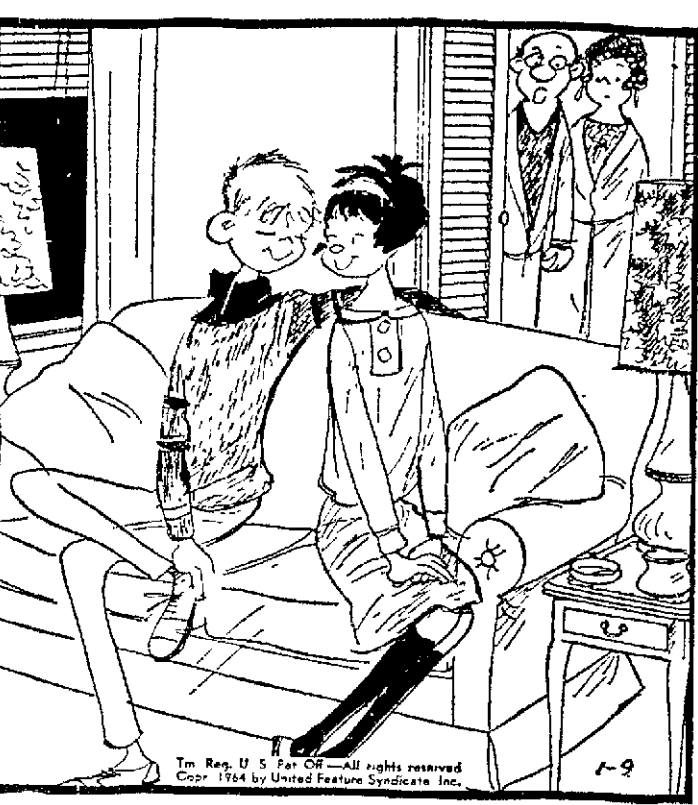

A sachem was sent to the Algonquians and he was bade to speak strong words. He did. "You think us squaw men," he said, "that we must clean and dress the game of the hunt. But if we are squaw men, we are also warriors. We are fierce in battle."

"If, therefore, those young men of the Algonquians who murdered our sons in their sleep are not punished, this I have to say: We will never rest. We swear by the sign of the Great Spirit, we swear by the honor of our women, we swear by the fires of the prophets, that we will not rest until the last Algonquian Indian has been swept from the face of the earth."

Feud Commences

Then he turned and left. The Algonquians did not punish their hunters—and the feud commenced. Thousands of Algonquians died the entire nation of the Hurons was decimated with the Algonquians. From and for more than 200 years the Iroquois fought the Algonquian.

It was into the middle of this feud that Samuel de Cham-

Appointment of Rabinovitz Is Called 'Unwise'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., said Tuesday that the interim appointment of David Rabinovitz to the U.S. District judgeship in western Wisconsin "was an unwise appointment."

"It is a reflection on all of the lawyers of the western district of Wisconsin," said O'Konski after President Johnson named Rabinovitz, a Sheboygan labor attorney.

Rabinovitz is from the eastern district of Wisconsin and plain stepped. In a brief battle on Lake Champlain, he sided with the Algonquians. From that moment on, the Iroquois turned their hatred upon the French. One of the results of

State Lab Confirms Data on Murder

Spice Says Partial Report Tells Facts Known in Kilsdonk Slaying

A partial report from the State Crime Laboratory in Madison has confirmed what was already known about the early-morning slaying of Mrs. Florence Kilsdonk, 28, in her Black Creek home Dec. 18. Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin Spice said today.

Spice said the report covered evaluation of evidence found at the scene of the crime by local authorities and by field workers from the crime laboratory.

At the same time, Spice said, he is continuing to press the investigation "from all angles" in hopes a solution may be found. Mrs. Kilsdonk was stabbed nine times about the head and chest as she prepared Christmas candy in her kitchen. Her two-month-old son, Jeffery, lying on a table nearby, was not harmed. The murder was discovered by Marvin Kilsdonk, the dead woman's husband, when he returned from work at a Menasha dairy.

Not Discounted

Spice has revealed that at least one suspect given a lie detector test in Green Bay immediately after the murder has not been completely discounted in the investigation.

Three men, including the dead woman's husband, were taken to Green Bay the day following the murder and given lie detector tests.

All three men were released after the test. Brown County Sheriff's Department has revealed the test given Marvin Kilsdonk was "inconclusive" and he was slated for further testing in Brown County sometime this month.

Several possible "weapons" which may have been used in the crime "have been checked out", Spice said. He did not elaborate on the types of weapons and what the tests showed. It is believed Mrs. Kilsdonk was killed with a heavy hunting knife, but no weapon was found at the scene of the crime. Spice said several knives "found elsewhere" have been turned over to his department for study, and have been sent to Madison.

White Uniforms Coming

Garbage Collectors To Get that 'New Look'

Appleton garbage collectors are going to acquire that "new look".

Starting next week, they will be among the best dressed in Wisconsin.

The reason? About 30 members of the sanitation division will be decked out in spanking, new white uniforms.

So, if you housewives see a man with "a white suit" in your backyard periodically, never fear... he's the garbage man.

"We decided on getting white coveralls for the men some time ago and included money in the 1964 budget," Public Works Director Robert W. Bues commented today.

Annual Contract He admitted the uniforms are overdue — they were expected to arrive and make their debut on the local scene last week.

Hollis Brouard, division superintendent, described the new attire to be supplied by Industrial Towel and Uniform Service of Oshkosh on an annual contract basis.

The uniforms will be all white with the wording, "Sanitation Division" inscribed on the back.

Name of the wearer will be in script above the front pocket for identification purposes.

The winter cap will be a bright red.

"We think the uniforms will improve public relations," Brouard said. "Homeowners will know who is in their backyards."

Police Called There have been occasions, believe it or not, in which housewives have called police when spotting a man in the yard... the latter turning out to be the garbage collector.

Needless to say, both housewife and city employee were embarrassed, along with the police officer checking out the call.

It could be, too, that Fido — the sometimes growling and teeth — chattering family pet — will recognize the garbage man as friend, not foe.

"We have had good acceptance by the men who will be wearing the uniforms," Brouard added.

The men will have uniform changes twice a week. Come summertime and warm weather, garbage men will switch over to a lighter coverall with short sleeves.

Some other communities in the region also have well-dressed garbage men.

Eventually, other divisions within the DPW, will be "sized" for uniforms.

Teachers Get Weapons for War With Student Smokers

State Instruction Department Sends Lesson Kits to Schools

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Non-smokers clubs, frank discussions of cigarette advertising, and graphs showing the numbers of non-smokers as compared to smoking students are weapons being suggested by the State Department of Instruction in its battle against the smoking student.

The suggestions are included in an extensive package of teaching materials and lesson plans being shipped this week to state schools. The package is a project of the Wisconsin Department of Instruction and the Wisconsin Division of the American Cancer Society.

School authorities are being told in the Instructions for implementing the educational program within the schools that "parents, school and medical personnel have become increasingly concerned about the increase in smoking among young people."

Bad Breath

The material is designed to be given to students starting in the sixth grade when the student is first presented with the medical fact that "a connection exists between cigarette smoking and lung cancer," and that "smoking can cause bad breath and stained teeth."

Teaching programs designed for junior high school students will cover such subjects as smoking interference with athletic success "because it reduces one's endurance," and "nicotine is a habit-forming drug having certain bad effects on the body."

High school students will be given more complicated instructions supported by text book materials supplied by medical societies. Studied will be the numbers of deaths from cancer and heart disease as compared to the rise of smoking in the last 30 years.

"Teaching will likely be most effective," the instructions state, "if the teacher has a conviction against the practice and personally sets an example." Teachers are also urged to be alert to students who are quitting the smoking habit due to the classroom instruction.

Lecturing Doomed

Lecturing to students on the bad effects of smoking "is doomed to failure" the instructions said and teachers are being told "the decision to smoke or not to smoke is unlikely to be made on the basis of its effect on health."

Suggested as teaching aids are the formation of non-smokers clubs, presentations by representatives of a local medical society, exhibits and experiments, and panel discussions presented by selected school athletic stars and other leaders.

The department of education expects to have an evaluation of the teaching campaign after a year of use in the field.

Complete Questionnaire To aid in evaluation, students will be asked to fill out a questionnaire before they begin the instruction and after the instruction is completed.

Questions asked in the form will determine the attitude of the student, first before he is influenced by the instruction, and then, after he has been informed of the dangers of smoking.

Audio visual aids will be made available to schools from film libraries of the American Cancer Society, the State Board of Health and the University of Wisconsin.

'Many Care'

With Spirits Rekindled, Girl Returns to Hospital

Kathy Moeller, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhardt Moeller, route 2, Hortonville, went back to a Madison Hospital Tuesday. With her she took the certainty that a lot of people care about her.

The story of Kathy's fight against a malignant brain tumor was recounted in the Post-Crescent Dec. 17, as the plucky child was about to celebrate her 13th birthday anniversary. Kathy's parents hoped that her spirits would pick up if she received birthday cards. They felt she needed something to restore her will to live.

Now, Mrs. Moeller wants to say, "thank you" to all the Fox Cities people who took time off from their own busy shopping and baking and family time to remember her daughter. Over 2,000 cards were sent to Kathy some saying "Happy Birthday," others, "Merry Christmas," and still others, "Get Well." The little girl's only wish was for a doll. She received eight — from strangers who cared that a child was frightened and ill at Christmas. There were other gifts too, and small amounts of money ahead. He was ordered to appear in court later this week to answer charges of driving too fast for conditions.

Damage to the two vehicles Appleton Girl Scouts took Kathy was estimated at about $250.

Village Okays First Standard Zoning Law

Combined Locks Adopts Planning Unit's Model

COMBINED LOCKS — Village board Tuesday night adopted a standard model zoning ordinance proposed by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, the village's first formal zoning law.

Under the ordinance, areas of the village are divided into heavy industrial, light industrial, business, shopping center, two and multiple-family residence, single family residence and conservancy district.

Most of the eastern end of the village near the Combined Locks Paper Company is zoned either light or heavy industrial while newer sections of the community are devoted to single and multiple family zoning.

Public Hearings

Two public hearings were held on the zoning ordinance with no citizens voicing opinions at either hearing.

Board members voted to change the polling station from the village hall to the pavilion in Combined Locks Park. The new station will be used in the April election. The change was made after it was pointed out the pavilion provided better parking facilities and eliminated the necessity of climbing many steps such as at the village hall.

Voting at the hall was held above the fire and police garages.

16-Week Program Will Teach Men Proper Handling of Duties, Their Role in Community

About 86 policemen from the Fox Valley registered at the opening session Wednesday of a special police training program being conducted by the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley urban team.

Most enrolled from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh, with a few coming from smaller Valley communities. Participants were selected by their departments. Fifty are registered for the afternoon section and 36 for the evening section of the 16-week course at the Fox Valley Center.

James Slaven, director of the Traffic Institute at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., spoke on "The Role of the Police in the Community" at the opening sessions.

Police have to live within certain influences, both good and bad, Slaven said, and the police officer must resist the evil influences and support the values of the community.

Expresses Concern

Slaven expressed concern about police officers being held responsible for increases in the types of crimes and deviances. Much of what the police deal with is after the fact, he said, and the action open to them, mainly jailing offenders, does not solve problems such as alcoholism, drug addiction or family arguments.

The community must recognize that it has to have the proper institutions, such as rehabilitation centers and family counseling, to solve problems of this nature, he said.

A major problem in recruitment for police work is the poor image of the police, Slaven

Appleton Hires Male Nurse For City Home

A male nurse will be hired for the Appleton City Home.

The council's personnel committee okayed the new position when it met Wednesday night.

Welfare Director Merton Ehrlicke and Home Supt. Robert Bastian say the services of a male nurse are badly needed. There are 27 men staying at the home.

Previously, the welfare ordinance committee approved the new position and authorized Ehrlicke to accept applications. The starting salary has not been set.

In other action, the personnel group approved hiring a stenographer and an aide for the city planning department.

The positions were created several months ago and funds included in the department's 1964 budget.

The committee also held hearings for two municipal employees who claimed they were recommended for merit raises but did not receive them.

After discussing each case, the committee reaffirmed its position that salary increases were not justified.

No action was taken on another department head's claim that he should have received two raises instead of one.

Appleton YMCA Sets Goal Of 500 New Memberships

Organization Will Introduce Family Plan During Campaign

The Appleton YMCA has set a goal of 500 new memberships by the end of this year. Construction will begin this spring at the site one block east of the present building.

The campaign, with a theme of "Preparation for Growth," will introduce the new family plan membership. Membership rates will increase March 1, after the campaign is completed.

Division chairmen and team captains began planning for the campaign at a dinner Wednesday at the YMCA.

Dr. Curtis Tarr, Lawrence College president, will be the guest speaker for a kickoff dinner Feb. 5 in the YMCA gymnasium. The YMCA boys' choir will sing.

The first report meeting will be Feb. 12, and the "victory" meeting will be Feb. 19. National YMCA Week will be Jan. 19 to 26.

Campaign Theme

The campaign theme was selected as the Y prepares for its move into a new $1.5 million building late next year. A building fund drive was held last year. Construction will begin this spring at the site one block east of the present building.

Gene Britton, membership campaign chairman, told the chairmen and captains the YMCA is studying its programs in preparation for the move into the new YMCA and seeking ways of expanding and improving the program.

Robert Spooner, YMCA membership chairman, told the campaign workers a new epoch is beginning for the Y, with a new general secretary, James Warwick, who took office last fall, planning for the new building, the change of the membership campaign from fall to winter, and the new family membership.

Campaign leaders include Britton, Robert Barlament, co-chairman; division chairmen Dr. C. E. Fenlon, Mrs. James Mohr, Hans Hartwig, Don Herrling, Mrs. Gerald Schomisch, James Retson, and Thomas Klenz, Y youth director, in charge of the new youth division.

Hike Participation Barlament said the Y will try to increase industry participation in the program in which a company pays 50 per cent of an employee's membership in the YMCA.

Britton said much work already has been done on membership renewals, and the campaign will be primarily for new prospects.

The YMCA now has about 2,000 full members and 800 to 900 members in various clubs. Warwick said he hopes full membership will reach 3,000 or possibly 3,500 when the Y moves into the new building.

New Rate Rate for the new family plan membership for parents and all children 8 to 18 years of age will be $50. The new family health club plan, in which both parents belong to the YMCA Health Club with family membership privileges, will have a rate of $100.

Other new types of membership are sustaining, for a contribution to the on-going program of any additional amount above the regular membership, and century club, a special annual contribution of $100 to help guarantee that no boy or girl is denied YMCA membership because of inability to pay.

A resident membership of $5 will be required now for permanent dormitory residents. The new building will not have a dormitory.

Other membership rates will have increases of $1 to $3 after March 1.

Delay Case Against Neenah Couple for Disorderly Conduct NEENAH — Proceedings in charges of disorderly conduct against a Neenah couple were delayed to March 11 by Judge James V. Sitter in county court here Wednesday provided the couple consults the Winnebago Guidance Center, Mr. and Mrs. William Weber, 215 Fifth St., Neenah, were charged by Neenah Police after a squabble at their home at 9 15 a.m. Dec. 27.

Luben Alsteen, 45, 420 Adams St., was fined $14.50 by Judge Sitter for being drunk and disorderly at 4 a.m. New Year's Day.

Lutherans to Set Up Public Church Library

Christian Books and Records Will be Available to Public

The First English Lutheran Church, 326 E. North St., will establish a church library with a collection of Christian books and records. It will operate as a free public library.

The library will be located in the church lounge area of the education building on Drew Street, north of the church, and will begin operation next week. Patrons will sign out their own books.

The church council has approved the library. John Mielke Jr. is chairman of the planning committee.

Through the efforts of Clifford Meyer and other members of the congregation, the library will begin operation with about 500 volumes of Christian books and a library of records of church hymns and sermons of great preachers.

Final Plans

The library committee will make final plans at a meeting Sunday. Serving with Mielke on the planning committee are Mrs. James Veum, Robert Gaerke, Clifford Meyer, Mrs. Gaylord Derber and the Rev. Leonard A. Ziemer, pastor.

The church library will be the second in Appleton to be operated as a public library. St. Francis Library, 116 S. Walnut St., is run by the Third Order of St. Francis, a Catholic organization, and also is open to the public without charge.

Little Chute Mails 1,840 Tax Bills

LITTLE CHUTE — About 1,840 tax bills were mailed Wednesday, and collection of taxes will start Monday, according to Mrs. Lorette Versteegen, village clerk.

Taxes will be collected during normal clerk's office hours on Jan. 13 through 17, 22 through 24 and 27 through 31 and on Feb. 5 through 7, 10 through 14, 19 through 21 and 24 through 28. For added convenience, the clerk's office will be open for payment of taxes every Friday from 6 to 8 p.m.

Personal property taxes must be paid in full by Feb. 28. Special assessments must also be paid in full, the clerk said.

Taxes can be paid on the installment plan with the first half paid before Jan. 31, and the balance to the county treasurer by July 31. Such half payment cannot be less than $20.

Checks or money orders may be mailed with tax bills, but a self-addressed stamped envelope is to be enclosed for return of receipted tax bills. Dog owners were also reminded to purchase a dog license when paying taxes or a list of dog owners will be turned over to the police department for collection of license fees.

More Than 100 Take Part in Pingpong, Pool, Chess Matches

More than 100 boys participated in the Appleton YMCA's annual pingpong, pool and chess contests, concluded last week.

Separate contests were held in grade school, junior high school and senior high school pingpong, pool and chess. Trophies were given to the winners and second place awards to the runners-up.

The winners were Greg Ehilke, George Mills and Ron Mills in pingpong; Thomas Lhost, Bill Graves and Richard Moe in pool, and George Behnke and John Forbes in chess.

Runners-up were Stephen Schlaser, Ron Magnuson and Jay Tilkins, pingpong; Eric Meythaler, George Mills and Jeff Rushton, pool, and Jeff Retson and Robert Stark, chess.

Ski School

Beginning students who wish to apply for the second annual Post-Crescent Ski School will find an application blank on Page B-10 in today's edition.

Division Chairmen of the Appleton YMCA membership campaign met Wednesday to map plans for the drive. The Y, with a present membership of about 2,000, is seeking 500 additional members. ## Annual Report Of Coroner Lists 2 Poison Deaths

Barbiturates Plus Alcohol Can Cause Death, Experts Say

Deaths of two elderly Appleton men during 1963 by barbiturate poisoning are listed as unclassified in the annual report submitted today by Coroner Bernard H. Kemps. Kemps said it is still undetermined whether the men died by accident or suicide.

Medical experts have determined that an ordinary sedative dose of a barbiturate may combine with an ordinary amount of liquor to leave behind a dose of nerve-depressant alcohol, which may cause death.

Kemps said the two barbiturate poisonings are the first officially recorded in Outagamie County. The state board of pharmacy has been notified of the deaths and has conducted investigations into possible illegal purchase of the drugs.

Barbiturate Research According to experiments recently completed in Texas, researchers learned that barbiturates hinder the breakdown process of alcohol in the system, permitting the alcohol to remain in the system for a greater amount of time.

Without the breakdown, alcohol has a severe depressing effect on some of the primitive nerves, including the vital center that regulates breathing. While different barbiturates showed varying degrees of interference, all upset normal metabolic (breakdown) process to some extent, researchers found.

The report also stated that 64 per cent of the county's 24 traffic accident victims had been drinking, according to blood tests taken. Of the 14 victims, five were drivers of cars involved in accidents. Three were passengers and one was a pedestrian.

Highest Alcohol Reading The highest reading ever recorded in Outagamie County on an alcohol analysis, 57, was taken from a 38-year-old Appleton man who was killed by a train while lying between the train rails in Appleton, the report stated.

Nine inquests were conducted, two with a jury and seven without juries, and 10 county residents were reported as suicides. There were two homicides in 1963 involving a Black Creek farmwife who was stabbed to death, and a small child whose father was convicted of negligent homicide and who is serving a term in Green Bay Reformatory.

Two deaths last year resulted from an airplane crash in the Town of Oneida. The first such crash in Outagamie County since 1951.

Asphyxiation caused three deaths, burns, two, and there were two deaths reported from farm accidents. Drowning, falls in the home, industrial accidents and falls from bed each caused one death. A house fire also claimed one life, and a child, believed killed in a house fire, was determined to have died of asphyxiation after a pathological examination was performed.

April 1 and 6 on physical and chemical scientific aids. Commander James Riordan, commander of the First District, Chicago Police Department, is tentatively scheduled to speak April 15 on interrogation and interview.

Herman Goldstein, administrative assistant to Orlando Wilson, Chicago chief of police, will speak on police administration. The date of his talk is uncertain.

Gilbert James, urban team sociologist and coordinator of the police course, will speak on human relations and police work Monday, functions of crime Feb. 26, juvenile delinquency March 2, sociological types March 8, and suicide March 18.

Behavior Schools Verne Imhoff, Fox Valley Center director and a criminal psychologist, will speak on schools of deviant behavior Feb. 24, criminal types March 11, alcoholism and drug addiction March 16, the sex deviant March 23, the behavioral continuum March 25, and problems of released inmates April 13.

Other lectures by urban team members will be on principles of leadership and their application by Glenn Jensen, urban team coordinator, Jan. 20; on principles of police administration by John Shannon, political scientist, Feb. 10; on projections for the Fox Valley Feb. 19 by V. A. Koptizke, economist, and Lloyd Luepflow, research associate, and on report writing and semantics April 20 and 22. Speakers have not been scheduled for sessions April 8 on the police role in court and April 27 on pre-sentence investigation.

State Readings Begin Slide Down Thermometer

Temperatures in Wisconsin began a long glide downward today as a cold wave pushed into the state on the heels of a light snowfall.

By early Friday, zero and sub-zero weather will be back in Wisconsin.

La Crosse received about four inches of new snow Wednesday and Wednesday night. Superior and Wausau had two inches and Lone Rock, Eau Claire and Park Falls one.

Some light snow fell throughout the state, but in the extreme southeastern area it was mixed with rain. This caused a light coating of slush which froze during the night and resulted in slippery streets and sidewalks. Highways were generally slippery due to the snowfall in the northern two-thirds of Wisconsin.

High temperatures Wednesday ranged from 36 at Racine to 30 at Superior.

Superior hit the low of 7 above zero early today. Eau Claire and La Crosse reported 15, Park Falls 18, Wausau 20, Lone Rock 22, Madison 25, Beloit 27, Green Bay 28 and Milwaukee 31.

Craig, Colo., set the national low of 20 below zero early today and Clewiston and Fort Myers, Fla., topped the country Wednesday with 85.

Court to Hear Arguments on 2 Appointees

Tribunal to Decide If Koop, Zeidler Legally in Office

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court agreed today to hear new arguments on whether the appointed heads of the state departments of Administration and Resource Development are holding office legally.

The court set Jan. 23 for renewed arguments in the continuing controversy over a governor's appointive powers. The court's agreement to take original jurisdiction of the new appointive case responded to a request from both the governor and the attorney general.

Leonard Schmitt, a Merrill attorney representing Gov. John W. Reynolds, told the court that the vital functions of the two state agencies demand a decision on whether their directors are serving lawfully.

Reynolds, a Democrat, reappointed Howard Koop commissioner of Administration and Frank Zeidler director of Resource Development after the Republican controlled Senate refused in November to confirm their original appointments.

In December, the Supreme Court ruled the governor has power to appoint persons to vacant state jobs. But the court did not address itself to whether such authority extends to re-naming appointees refused Senate confirmation.

Koop and Zeidler were taken off the state payroll Nov. 24, pending a court decision on their status. When he received word of the action, Reynolds personally borrowed funds to reimburse the two men for lost salary. The governor said that if the court rules against his appointees, they will not have to repay the money.

Judge Delays Neenah Man's Chicago Trip

OSHKOSH — Earl Moore, 36, Wisconsin Rapids, must wait 30 days more for his trip to Chicago to get a job and sell his car to a friend there.

Moore pleaded guilty this morning of driving after revocation of his license. County Judge James Sitter imposed a 30-day jail sentence and suggested Moore have someone drive him to Chicago.

Moore was arrested by Neenah Police early today on S. Commercial Street. His license had been revoked for drunken driving Nov. 19.

He said this was the first time he had driven his car since then and that he was on his way to Chicago where a job had been promised him and where he planned to sell his car.

Rain Is Expected Thursday night from the Carolinas to southern New England with snow over the northern portion and snow flurries from the Appalachians through the Ohio valley to the great Lakes area. The entire northwest quadrant will have snow with showers along the coast. A few showers are likely in northern Florida. It will be cooler from the plains to the Appalachians. (AP Wirephoto Map)

State Prisoner Admits Theft Of 55 TV Sets From Motels

An Illinois man now being held in Waupun State Prison has told Outagamie County Sheriff authorities he stole over 55 portable television sets from motels and sold them to a "fence" in St. Louis for $40 each.

Included in the thefts, authorities said, are sets taken from motels near Appleton, Neenah, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.

Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Lt. Russell Bowers went to Waupun Wednesday to talk to James Mathison, 43, of Centerville, Ill., who has admitted taking sets from motels in Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri. The sets were then taken to St. Louis where they were sold.

Zuelzke said St. Louis police have arrested and are holding a St. Louis man to whom the sets were sold. Mathison said he did not know what happened to the sets after he disposed of them.

Mathison visited several motels in the Fox River Valley Dec. 1 and Dec. 2. When he left the motels, operators discovered the sets missing.

Mathison was arrested by Missouri State Police last week and returned to the Wisconsin State Prison from which he had been placed on parole last year.

When he was arrested, Mathison had four television sets in his car. Zuelzke said charges against Mathison for thefts in Outagamie, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties are pending.

Two Fined for Tending Bar Without License

NEENAH — A Menasha man was fined $75 for allowing an unlicensed person to tend bar, while a Menasha woman was fined $75 for being the unlicensed bartender Wednesday in county court branch three.

Peter Kropidowski, 751 Warsaw St., Menasha, manager of Big Pete's Tavern, 217 Main St., Menasha, and Mrs. Mildred Bushman, 2570 Lakeview Drive, Menasha, the bartender, were fined.

Dale Jost, 823½ W. Commercial St., Appleton, pleaded no contest to charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest on Christmas, and was sentenced to a fine of $104.50 or 45 days in jail. The incident occurred at the same tavern.

In other court action Mrs. Beryl Zielinski, 44 DePere St., Menasha, was fined $10 for permitting her dog to run at large.

Union Negotiations

Teamsters Local Asks WERB for Fact Finding

Teamsters Local 563 filed a petition with the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board Wednesday, requesting fact finding in its 1964 contract negotiations with the City of Appleton.

Robert Schlieve, the local's secretary-treasurer, said today the union is sending a letter to city officials to see if they were willing to have the dispute mediated by the WERB.

The common council's personnel committee gave the union a final offer last month which did not include an across-the-board wage increase as requested. The union membership rejected it.

Local 563 represents about 100 employees in the department of public works.

Merit Increases Last week, the council concurred in recommendations of the personnel committee in granting merit increases to about 180 city employees, including some in the DPW.

Ald. E. V. Krueger (11th), committee chairman, said at a meeting Wednesday night that he was "disappointed the committee has not heard from Mr. Schlieve."

The committee apparently received no formal notice of the union's rejection of the city's offer, which included increased fringe benefits.

"Our petition for fact-finding will be self explanatory," Schlieve said. He added the union has not received a list of persons granted merit raises but would get one.

Winnebago County's Board of Supervisors will learn this week that Outagamie County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer is still holding the door open for possible talks between the two counties regarding a joint regional airport.

Fulcer, in a reply to a letter to Jack D. Steinhilber, Winnebago County district attorney and corporation counsel, said "should the Winnebago County board of supervisors officially request the Outagamie County board of supervisors to review the airport situations of the two counties as they presently exist, you can be sure such a request would be given proper consideration by the Outagamie County Board."

Steinhilber had written to Fulcer personally pointing out a section of a Winnebago County engineering report which recommended that Winnebago County determine whether Outagamie County will participate in studies of the feasibility and cost of a new joint airport in the Oshkosh and Neenah area.

Steinhilber said he was following the engineering recommendations in asking Fulcer's reaction. Steinhilber said he was acting in behalf of the Winnebago County aviation committee.

ties will not get better young men to go into police work, he said. Young wives often will not consent to their husbands going into police work when they have to suffer the kinds of abuse they do, he added.

There has been a tremendous increase in community demands for services from the police, but the increase in police staffing does not approximate this increased demand, Slaven said.

32 Sessions The police course will meet in 32 two-hour sessions on Mondays and Wednesdays through April 27. Speakers will include members of the urban team and outside speakers.

Saul Sorin, director of the Anti-Defamation League, Milwaukee, will speak on human relations and police work Jan. 15.

Orval H. Meister, Whitefish Bay police chief, will discuss principles of supervision Jan. 22.

John Schoenick, director of training and technical services for the Wisconsin State Patrol, Wisconsin State Patrol Academy, Sparta, will speak Jan. 27 on evaluation of police personnel.

John Howard, Wauwatosa police chief, will discuss the role of discipline Jan. 29. John Hunter of the Bureau of Government, Madison, will speak Feb. 3 and 5 on decision-making and decision-making problems.

Set to Speak Raymond A. Dahl, inspector of the Milwaukee police department, is tentatively scheduled to speak Feb. 12 and 17 on principles of police administration.

A panel discussion of juvenile delinquency is set for March 4. Hill Trubitt, on leave of absence from the Indiana University Police School to work with the Bureau of Government police program, will be the moderator.

Milton Varsos, chief psychologist, Division of Children and Youth, State Department of Public Welfare, Madison, is tentatively scheduled to discuss psychological scientific aids for police work on March 30. Roy McDaniel, special agent with the FBI, Milwaukee, will speak

Placed on Probation For Theft From Store

OSHKOSH — Lloyd J. Schreiber, 23, 224 Alcott Drive, Neenah, this morning was placed on probation for two years by County Judge James V. Sitter and ordered to make restitution of $350 to the manager of the Thom McAn store at the Valley Fair Shopping Center in the Town of Menasha. Schreiber pleaded guilty earlier of taking that money from the shoe store where he has been employed.

The probation term is the result of a pre-sentence investigation.

Neenah Man Sentenced To 20 Day Jail Term

OSHKOSH — Jerome J. Shimeck, 55, 401 N. Commercial St., Neenah, Wednesday afternoon was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail for operating a car after revocation of his license.

He was arrested Dec. 13 and pleaded guilty Wednesday afternoon. County Judge James Sitter, in imposing the jail term, said he was taking into consideration the time Shimeck already had spent in jail when unable to post a $200 bond to await trial. He had pleaded innocent earlier.

Area Programs Include Fine Musical Treats

Former Neenah Man Appearing With Band of America; Opera Theatre Jan. 23

BY JINGO
Music is the byword for theatergoers in the area this month. The attractions range from rock 'n' roll to opera and they swing from DePere through Appleton to Oshkosh with local talent as the key.

Perhaps the biggest treat is bound up in the final attraction. On Jan. 23 at the Civic Auditorium at Oshkosh, Paul Lavalle and his top-flight Band of America will appear in concert on The Town and Gown series.

The local flavor is added to this stellar event by the presence of a Neenah lad who has carved a successful career out of the concert and musical comedy stage. Ronald Rogers will appear as vocal soloist with Lavalle's long time favorite band.

Rogers has become a name to reckon with on both sides of the Atlantic on concert stage. Musical comedy bills and night clubs.

He's appeared several times in Milwaukee with a variety of top name leading ladies in touring operettas and musical comedies. Last summer in the tent circuit one of his leading ladies was Margaret Truman. Daniel He also appeared opposite Dorothy Lamour in "Du Barry Was a Lady."

The Jan. 23 date is the closest and Gian Carlo Menotti's "The he has played to his old home and the occasion should serve as a merry reunion.

THE SNOWFLAKE

like a New Year comes upon us bright, unmarred and in full perfection. The moment it touches the earth all beauty and perfection are gone. While we may try to turn over a new leaf sin is always present. What a wonderful time in this New Year to accept God's gift—His Son—"Who his own self bore our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness by whose stripes ye were healed." 1 Peter 2:24

Nurses Get Emmy Level Acting Job

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 2) — The Nurses benefits greatly from the presence of Bradford Dillman, giving one of the most beautiful performances seen on television in a long time. This job could win him an Emmy. He plays a young sensitive priest who finds some of the answers don't come too easily when he is faced with suffering patients.

7-7:30 (Channel 11) — The best part of a run-of-the-household Donna Reed Show comes when Jeff (Paul Petersen) turns on the charm to convince the head of a girl's club to hire his com- bo for a dance.

7-8 (Channel 2) — Rawhide has an intermittently amusing episode in which Wishbone (Paul Brinegar) disarms an irate un- ladylike shopkeeper (Marie Windsor) two ways. He takes away a shotgun she is using to threaten a drummer and wins her heart.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — Jaye P. Morgan follows her dramatic ap- pearance on last night's Eleventh Hour with a comedy job on My Three Sons. She plays a night club singer who meets Fred MacMurray when her poodle picks up Tramp. And they have a gay old time of it.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — The guest hero on Dr. Kildare is given a good performance by Jack Lord, but the plot weak- ness has the viewer brooding about why a professional foot- ball player, washed out of the sport by rheumatoid arthritis, chose surgery as his second pro- fession.

8-9 (Channel 2) — Perry Mas- on has another mixed-up mel- ange of melodramatics and mur- der. Big business, a retiring president, crossed charges of embezzling and a lady lawyer with shapely legs are mixed up in "The Case of the Accosted Accountant."

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Kraft Suspense Theater has a dandy, ironic vignette about two ven- geful men who take turns being the hunter and the hunted. Steve Forrest and John Gavin are a successful businessman and a laborer respectively whose ac- cidental street-corner brush one night leads to an obsessive search and ultimate tragedy. (Color)

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba's minister of industry will lead cane cutters into Camaguey Province's sugar fields next month, Havana Radio said today.

(Che) Guevara is scheduled to head a brigade of 1,000 volunteer machete-wielders. The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said labor unions in Camaguey are contributing 4,000 volunteers to cut and load sugar cane during the harvest now getting under way.

Actor Plans Cruise With All-Girl Crew

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Steve Cochran says he's going to take a six-month cruise with an almost all-girl crew.

With the help of one man and four girls, he plans to sail his 40-foot schooner, the Rogue, to the Bahamas. One of the girls will be his cousin, Billie Rose. He hasn't selected the others.

Cochran says he'll sail as soon as he gets a divorce from Heddy Janna Jensen, who recently returned to her native Denmark.

Megellas May Race Van Pelt In 6th District

One of 10

Neenah Instructor Finalist for 'National Teacher of Year' Honor

NEENAH — William E. Dunwiddie, social studies teacher and department head at Neenah High School, has been named one of 10 finalists for 'National Teacher of the Year' award in the national project sponsored by Look Magazine in cooperation with the Council of Chief State School Officers and the United States Office of Education.

A screening committee of national education leaders chose 10 finalists from nominations received at the invitation of Francis Keppel, U.S. Commissioner of Education, addressed to the chief state school officers in all 50 states.

Dunwiddie shares the honor of being chosen a finalist with six high school teachers from Prescott, Ariz.; West Hartford, Conn.; Sand Springs, Okla.; Selinsgrove, Pa.; Memphis, Tenn.; and Springfield, Vt. Three elementary school teachers were selected from Anaconda, Mont.; Columbia, S.C.; and Riverton, Wyo.

Interview William J. Burke, editorial research director from LOOK Magazine, visited with the Neenah teacher on Monday and his report will go to the selection committee for consideration in picking the winner.

The sponsors of the award point out that the winning teacher will be representative of the thousands of outstanding teachers in our nation's schools and will symbolize excellence in teaching in every state and community.

A gold lapel pin of the clasp hand-crafted by Cartier's and a framed award certification will be given the winning "National Teacher of the Year" and he will be featured in an article in LOOK.

Success of the movement which apparently has the unofficial backing of the party organization will depend on what commitments Megellas can get from Washington according to Russell Meerdink, Sixth District chairman.

62 Candidate John Race, the party's standard bearer in 1962, said he would wait and see what developed on Megellas before making any decision of his own. He said he would back Megellas if the former candidate consented to run again. He added that if Megellas declined to return he might consider being a candidate himself.

Hanson called Van Pelt a non-entity the voters cannot afford anymore. He said the Republicans can not do anything about Van Pelt but the Democrats can.

The state party chairman also said party leaders in Wisconsin would re-elect John Reynolds over — and there is no doubt in my mind. He called Reynolds a "courageous man" who has put his principles on the line.

A 126-page study and analysis of the Sixth District was done by Daniel Glasheen, former Kaukauna policeman and now a teacher in Fond du Lac. The report will be made available to democratic leaders in the district.

The Oshkosh Council has written the county board that it would like to purchase the fairgrounds for eventual park and school purposes and that it would respect the lease the county now has with the fair association.

The lease expires April 30, 1979.

City Manager Ray E. Harbaugh explained the city assessed the fairgrounds a value of $103,000 on the raw land or slightly more than $4,000 per acre for the 26.7 acres. Except for the proposed $50,000 4-H and produce building planned for construction this year, it was thought the other buildings would have already been amortized or would be amortized by the expiration of the fair association's lease.

Harbaugh stressed the $103,000 figure was not to be construed as the city's purchase offer price for the fairgrounds. It was suggested that the county park and fair committee secure its own appraisal. Supv. Emil Ristow, Oshkosh committee chairman, said his committee did not have any money budgeted to pay for an appraisal.

Council Pres. Erban Harenburg said fair association officials had told him it was immaterial whether the city or county owned the fairgrounds as long as there were facilities for operating a fair.

Supv. Herbert H. Oshkosh, committee secretary, said the committee would meet again with the council next Wednesday afternoon prior to submitting a report to the Jan. 21 county board meeting.

A man of divergent interests Dunwiddie likes to write and he has co-authored a textbook, "Problems in Democracy," and written a number of teachers' manuals. Active in church affairs, Bill enjoys singing, joins a John Jay Fellow at Harvard University 1961-62. He came to Neenah High School in 1949 after teaching at Reedsburg High School and Hartford High School.

The Dunwiddies live at 848 Higgins Ave., Neenah.

Winnebago Board, Fair Unit Schedule Discussion

Decision May Come on Whether City Will Purchase Fairgrounds

OSHKOSH — The county fair, park and conservation committee today set 7 p.m. Friday for a meeting at the courthouse with officials of the Winnebago County Fair Association.

The meeting follows discussions held Wednesday night with the Oshkosh Community Council at the latter's workshop report will be made available to democratic leaders in the district.

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) — James Stodtbeck and Tom Jones of Kalispell didn't let a mishap interfere with their ice fishing.

BABY FORMULA INDUSTRY, A HEALTHY, GROWING INFANT

DEAR CY:

A new mother on our block is always complaining about having to make baby formula. With a very young baby, she spends about seven hours a week making it. She gets doubly mad because she used to buy baby formula in Miami but can't get her prescription filled here in Colorado. I'd like to look into opportunities in the baby formula industry, if there is such a thing. What can you tell me?

EMILY J.

DEAR EMILY:

The baby formula business is a growing infant industry. In 1947, the services were born as Ed Wenner opened in San Francisco, and Sidney D. Ingram and Allan M. Miller started in Brooklyn. Today baby formula is sold in Peoria, Philadelphia, Miami, Baltimore, Seattle, Kansas City (Missouri), Lancaster, Allentown, Los Angeles, Chicago and Phoenix. New services are expected to debut soon in Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, with Boston, Washington, D.C. and Pittsburgh commencing later by the end of 1964.

Not all baby formula suppliers sell to mothers at home. Some concentrate on hospitals where the nutriment is supplied at from 70 cents to $1 per day per child, making substantial saving for hospitals possible. With four million babies seeing America for the first time each year and requiring three and a half billion formula feedings, the market is there. But... last year, infant formula services fed only an estimated 165,000 babies. This isn't a drop in the bottle! Here's an industry which expects to be motherhood's greatest boon since diapers-to-go!

CY

DEAR CY:

When I took this job, they told me a college degree wasn't needed for promotions. That may be but I notice those who get moved up all have one. A correspondence school wrote me I could get a college degree by taking their courses. I have had no time in college. Would this be a bona fide degree?

JENNER

DEAR CY:

There is no way (repeat, no way) of earning a college degree entirely through home study. I suggest you try to devise a way of spending two years in college, and then completing your work through home study. For a hard-boiled run-down on this subject, write the American Management Association, 1515 Broadway, New York City. Ask for their booklet, "Diploma in the Mailbox" by Peter C. Reid. It's free!

CY

DEAR CY:

One of my closest friends came over to the house, crying about how his retail music business had no future. He asked me to loan him money and, later, walked out in a huff. All I said was, "Did you read Cy Barrett's column on how retail music sales have almost doubled since 1955? He claimed men with business judgment who were red hot promoters could do well in the music business." What's up?

FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND:

Instead of a question, you mailed me an answer, and thanks.

The great highway performer

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway. You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8*—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them. They were built to be driven by you—on the kinds of roads you drive on.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Which, after all, is the kind of performance you'd expect from Chevrolet. The greater satisfaction and enjoyment built into these cars is borne out, year after year, by the higher resale they bring over other makes in their field.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet.

Loyola Breezes to 96-80 Win Over Marquette Quint

Ramblers Record 11th Victory In 12 Starts; Warriors Now 7-11

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette's basketball Warriors are convinced that Chicago Loyola deserves its No. 3 national ranking.

The Ramblers, the defending NCAA champions, gave Marquette a lesson in the finer points of basketball by streaking to a 96-80 victory before a crowd of 8,310 Wednesday night at the Arena.

NCAA Pledges Full Support To Agreement

Council Refuses To Lift Ban on Summer Basketball

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association wraps up the odds and ends of another convention today and sends members home with a confused conception of the boiling war with the Amateur Athletic Union.

In his closing report, Robert F. Ray of the University of Iowa, president of the NCAA, pledged "absolute and full support of the MacArthur agreement."

"I assure both the representatives of the AAU and our friends in the federations, in which we fully believe, of our continual willingness to discuss fully at any time with a cooperative spirit the issues which divide us."

At the same time, Ray disclaimed any part in the bitterness against the AAU reflected in the various reports of the college track and field, gymnastics and handball federations.

Do Not Control

"They have a right to say what they wish," he said. "We are only a part of the federations. We do not control them."

The federation spokesmen, have been sharply critical of the AAU and have promised that "all hell will bust loose" after the Olympic Games in Tokyo in October.

All-Sports Banquet Set For Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Plans are underway for an All-Sports banquet to be held by the Kaukauna Athletic Club at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 25 at the Elks clubrooms, with James "Rip" Collins as guest speaker.

The event will replace the mid-winter baseball banquet held in previous years. An effort will be made to secure a representative of the Green Bay Packers to appear on the program. Ticket sales are expected to get under way within a week.

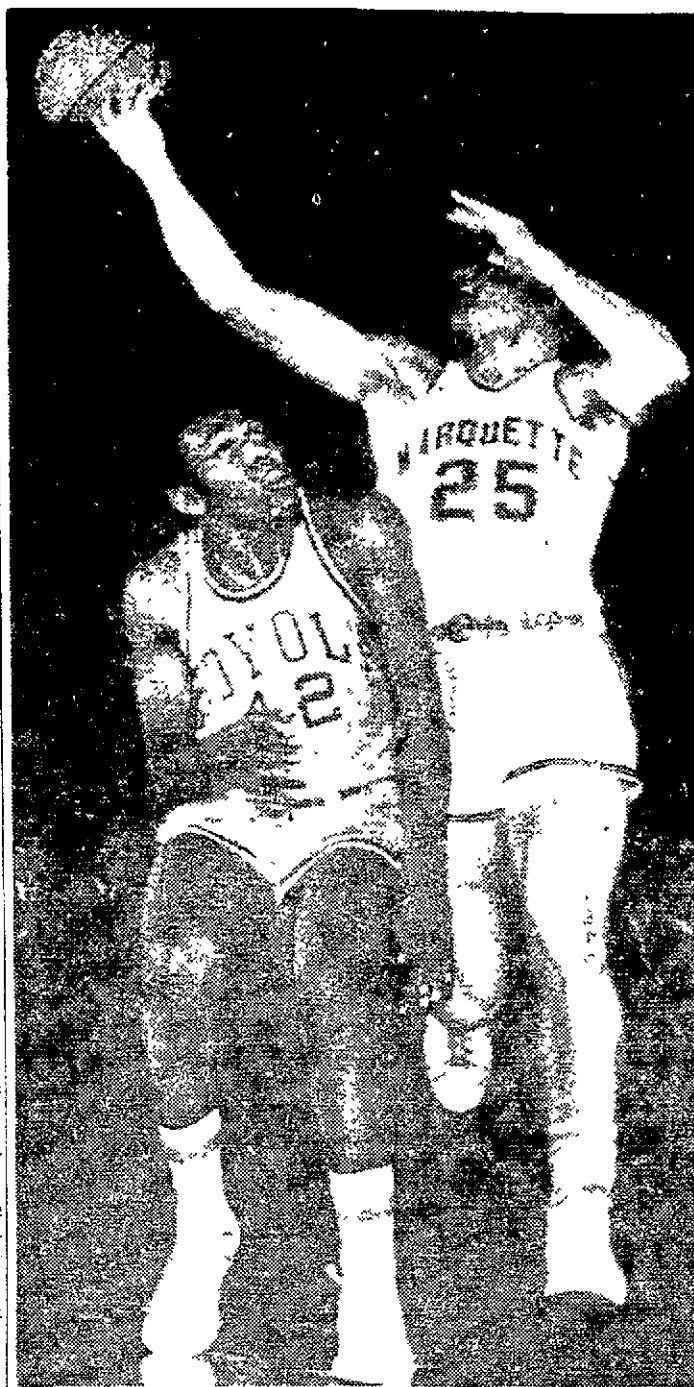

Collins appeared at a baseball banquet in 1961 and was well received. He was a member of the St. Louis Cardinals' famed "gas-house gang" of the 1930's.

Packers' Chances Depend on Who Is Back, Says Ringo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can the Green Bay Packers regain the National Football League championship in 1964?

"A lot depends on who's back with us next fall," said Green Bay's all-pro center, Jim Ringo Wednesday, in Los Angeles for the Pro Bowl game Sunday.

"Forrest Gregg, our best offensive tackle, is retiring to take a coaching job, and linebacker Bill Forrester and several other veterans have been talking of quitting," added Ringo.

Boxing Commissioner Again Urges Federal Control to Save Sport

Dropping TV Bouts 'Climactic Insult,' Abe Greene Claims

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—The commissioner of the World Boxing Association called again Wednesday for federal control of boxing and a unified effort by all forces in the sport to help save it.

Otherwise, said Abe J. Greene, boxing "will move out of the public eye and into oblivion."

The Paterson, N.J., editor and boxing official said that a broadcasting chain's decision to end its weekly television fights after its present contract runs out "is the climactic insult to a sport which has been sorely abused throughout the years and has done nothing to deserve better."

"If those who have some say in the sport do not speedily forget their cupidity, their petty jealousies and hypocritical ambitions, the television insult will become the coup de grace which will toll the 10 count for a once great sport."

"A new unity, in which selfish goals must be forgotten in the broad interests of preserving the sport, is the only salvation," he added.

Whopping Boys

"Boxing men have become so accustomed to hearing their own whine as whipping boys that they forget they've been the bad boys. At the same time they have not only not lifted a finger to bring order to a madhouse but have frequently thrown roadblocks in the way of decent reform which could have saved the sport."

In his statement reviewing the boxing situation, Greene criticized the men who control heavyweight champion Sonny Liston.

"The World Boxing Association, with its laudable aims, doesn't have the teeth to force the necessary unity," said Greene. "Nor is there any law or any unified influence which can prevent a small clique from making a personal bonanza out of the heavyweight championship, the richest and the biggest bauble in boxing."

"The high potentates who control Sonny Liston pick their own spots to operate and thumb their noses at any suggestion of regulation or of accomplishing some good for boxing."

He did not elaborate. "The government must step in, not only to help preserve boxing as a body builder and a stimulant for national aggressiveness, but as a rich tax source," he said.

Illinois Football Team Voted Comeback of the Year Award

BY HUGH FULLERTON JR.
From nowhere to the Rose Bowl championship in two seasons—that was the story of the Illinois football team that made the Comeback of the Year in 1963.

Just two years ago the Illini had just about hit the bottom in Big Ten football. They lost nine straight games and their prospects of improvement looked dim. In 1962 they won two and lost seven but finished eighth in the Big Ten standings.

In September of 1963, Illinois promised to have a better team, but even Coach Pete Elliott didn't expect to do much better than break even. He figured the comparatively inexperienced Illini were a year or two away from being title contenders in their tough conference. But the boys surprised him by winning seven games, losing one and tying one to win the Big Ten title and the trip to the Rose Bowl.

Forrest Gregg, our best offensive tackle, is retiring to take a coaching job, and several other veterans have been talking of quitting," added Ringo.

Comeback of the Year by sports writers and broadcasters voting in the annual Associated Press year-end poll. It was a close contest with four individual athletes and two other teams that made notable 1963 comebacks standing high in the voting.

The Illini drew 29 votes for first place, 29 for second and 20 for third out of 145 ballots and a total of 174 points on a 5-2-1 scoring basis. Second with 124 points was Sandy Koufax, the strong Los Angeles Dodgers southpaw, who recovered from an injury-plagued season and pitched the Dodgers to the world baseball championship.

Third with 115 was Julius Boros, who won his second U.S. Open Golf Championship 11 years after winning his first.

Other top contenders for comeback honors included the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League with 94 points, Dick Stuart of the Boston Red Sox with 74, the base-where they beat Washington ball Dodgers 65 and Jim Martin of the football Baltimore Colts.

Appleton's Terrors, with four straight Fox River Valley Conference basketball victories, will have to keep its guard up high for the next two weeks.

First of all, the Terrors have to guard against that old upset bug-a-boo which could all too easily result from looking past Friday's opponent (Green Bay West) to the Bob Sullivan-led Manitowoc Ships Jan. 17.

Second, the Terrors will have to guard both the Wildcats and Ships on the court. And although sporting only a 2-1 record, West could be the hardest to guard.

Whip South

The Wildcats zipped by Sheboygan South, 86-61, in December, while Appleton's margin over the Redmen was 81-51. Dick Woosenkraft led the Green Bay five that night with 18 points.

It will be Woosenkraft and Ted Wittig that the Terrors will be concerned with Friday night.

Wittig is ninth in the circuit with 56 points, while Woosenkraft is 13th with 39 points. Appleton has two players, Brian Rock (second with 96 points) and Gary Hietpas (55 points), among the top 10 scorers.

A search is still underway to find a replacement for starting forward Tom Callaway, who suffered a broken leg two weeks ago. The starter in place of Callaway will be selected from Doug Ehlke, Chip Taggart and Bruce Miller, according to coach Dick Emanuel.

The Terror coach said he would rather have Callaway's Turn to Page 12 Col. 3

Royal Accepts Coaches Award

'The Line Between Victory and Defeat Is Thin,' Says Coach

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—"You've got to get those bounces to win the close games," Darrell Royal said. "I just got the bounces."

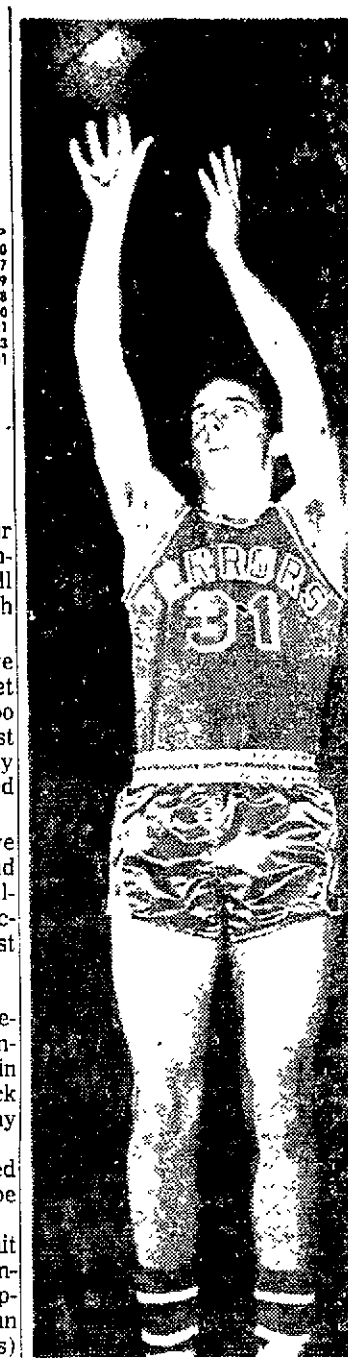

The brilliant young coach of the University of Texas, college football's Coach of the Year, is the first to admit that he's no superhero in his profession.

"There were a dozen teams last season that might have licked us on a given day, just as we might lick them," he said. "Some games are decided by five snaps of the ball. The line between victory and defeat is a thin one."

Extreme modesty and a sound sense of values are the trademark of the clean-cut, 39-year-old former Oklahoma quarterback who was picked by his contemporaries Wednesday as having done the best coaching job in 1963.

Royal was picked as the major college Coach of the Year and the man who once almost hired him, paunchy Bill Edwards of Wittenberg, set a precedent by winning the small college award for the second year in a row.

They were honored by a dinner Wednesday night at which they received the annual Kodak plaques. Also honored was the retired General of the Armies Douglas MacArthur, who was presented the first Tuss McLaughry Award given to an individual who has distinguished himself in service to others.

Sellout Assured For Milwaukee Baseball Dinner

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A sell-out crowd of nearly 700 is assured for the Milwaukee baseball writers' 11th annual Diamond Dinner Jan. 19 at the Schroeder Hotel, dinner chairman Frank Marasco announced today.

With a "Future Hall of Famers" theme, the writers will honor the St. Louis Cardinals' Stan Musial and the Milwaukee Braves' Henry Aaron, Warren Spahn and Eddie Mathews.

Aaron also will be honored as the Braves' most valuable player in 1963. Pitcher Bob Sadowski will receive an award as Milwaukee's rookie of the year.

Bing Devine, general manager of the Cardinals, will be the principal speaker.

Gov. John W. Reynolds has proclaimed Jan. 12-19 "Midwinter Baseball Week in Wisconsin" to coincide with the dinner.

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The widely-held pre-season opinion that Xavier "can't help but be weaker with the loss of 'Kip' Whittinger and Dick Wiesner" is turning out to be wishful thinking, as far as Hawk foes are concerned.

If the 1963-64 Hawks are any less potent than their 1962-63 state Catholic champion predecessors, statistics for the first half of the regular season don't reflect it. The Hawks have crushed nine opponents by an average margin of 27.9 points per game. They have scored at the rate of 73.9 points a game, while their magnificent defensive efforts have permitted only 46.

Two more teams will get a chance to test the vulnerability of the current Xavier quintet this weekend. Friday night, the Hawks invade Van Dyke Gym, De Pere, to meet Abbot Pennings in the closing game of their Fox Valley Catholic Conference first-round slate. Sunday afternoon (2:30 p.m.) the Hawks visit Wausau to take on Newman in the final non-conference, non-tournament game of the campaign.

First Look

Xavier has already beaten Newman (78-52 in the season opener) but will be getting its first look at Pennings. The Squires are tied for sixth place (with a 1-4 record) while the defending champion Hawks are flying at the head of the pack, with 6-0.

The FVCC's extensive weekend schedule calls for action on three days. Besides the Xavier-Pennings game Friday, Marquette will invade Premontre in a survival battle. The Cadets trail Xavier by one game, while the Cavaliers are 1½ behind. A loss for Premontre would hurt its title chances, while a loss for Marquette would virtually doom its championship aspirations.

Saturday night, much-improved St. John plays host to Pennings. Menasha St. Mary visits Fond du Lac Springs and Premontre plays at Oshkosh Lourdes. Sunday, Springs will be at St. John, while St. Mary plays host to Lourdes.

Two Hawk basketball winning streaks — 36 straight, over all Milwaukee's rookie of the year, and 22 straight in FVCC play, will be at stake Friday. The cease to be a sport and become pressure keeps building to such that another lost freedom, an extent, contends Coach Gene (Torchy) Clark, that any opponent is dangerous — no matter what its record.

little noticeable effect on the Hawks who have continued their glory flight despite the 1963-4 loss of 3-year regulars Whittinger and Wiesner and another regular, John Heinritz.

Returning regulars Rocky Bleier and Bob DeBruin have teamed with Tim Garvey, Tom Rankin and Bill Timmers (and a half-dozen or more capable reserves) to repel every threat to date.

The Hawks' smallest victory margin has been 15 points (against Marinette and Marsh-

MacArthur Warns Coaches About Controls

Football Should be Kept Free From Government's Clutch

NEW YORK (AP)—Old soldier Douglas MacArthur, speaking slowly and with distinct care, warned the American Football Coaches Association Wednesday night to keep their game free from "the ever-expanding clutch of government control."

The 83-year-old five star general spoke at the annual banquet of the coaches' group at which he was presented with the first Tuss McLaughry Award for "service to others."

MacArthur spoke in a deadly serious vein as he applauded the coaches and their game, told them to keep the sport free and individual, then showed a bit of mildly barbed flashing wit.

Standing Ovation

Called back to the microphone after he had finished his address to a standing ovation, MacArthur had a story to tell.

He said he had been stopped Wednesday and congratulated by a passerby, "on how much better I looked than my pictures."

"You look so much bigger, stronger and younger without your glasses," the man said. "Yes sir, your pictures don't do you justice, Mr. Truman."

In the principal address MacArthur stressed the character and body building aspects of the game and called it "father and mother to that delightful fellow, the Monday morning quarterback."

"My concern is that it does not fall within the ever-expanding clutch of government control. You must keep it free from bureaucratic control."

"Should this happen it would — will be at stake Friday. The cease to be a sport and become pressure keeps building to such that another lost freedom, an extent, contends Coach Gene (Torchy) Clark, that any opponent is dangerous — no matter what its record."

Laker 136-118 Win Over NY

Ends in Brawl

Four Ejected as Los Angeles Takes Fifth Straight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A torrid brawl three minutes before game's end highlighted National Basketball Association action Wednesday night as the Los Angeles Lakers walloped the New York Knicks 136-118.

The fourth period began with the Knicks' Billy McGill and Jim Krebs of the Lakers jostling one another. A fight nearly followed but teammates intervened.

As the Laker lead grew longer, tempers grew shorter. Krebs and McGill resumed their shoving match and then switched to throwing punches.

Players from both benches spilled onto the court and fights broke out all over the floor. For nearly six minutes, referees frantically blew whistles and police called for reinforcements while the fans watched with delight.

A looping right hand by the Knicks' Tom Hoover crashed on to Laker Don Nelson's mouth. The wound needed three stitches to mend it.

Finally, officers restored order, players returned to their benches, and four ejected players—Lakers' Nelson and Krebs, Knicks' Hoover and McGill—tramped dejectedly to the showers.

Before the explosion, Jerry West poured in 39 and Elgin Baylor 36 to lead the Lakers to their fifth straight win and their sixth consecutive victory over the New Yorkers.

In two other games on the Wednesday night schedule the Baltimore Bullets snapped a four-game losing streak with a 106-99 victory over the Detroit Pistons and the Philadelphia 76ers returned to their former Syracuse home where they dropped a 126-110 decision to the Cincinnati Royals.

Bruins Chances of Landing Worsley Getting Slimmer

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A few more rough games for Montreal's Charley Hodge and Boston won't have a ghost of a chance of swinging a deal for goalie Gump Worsley.

The Bruins reportedly have been casting covetous eyes at Worsley, the former National Hockey League star who has been toiling in the American League with the Quebec Aces.

Worsley was traded by the New York Rangers last summer for Montreal's Jacques Plante but played only eight games for the Habs before being injured. Hodge filled in brilliantly and before he knew it, Worsley was in the AHL.

The slump-ridden Bruins are said to be interested in swapping their goalie, Ed Johnston, for the Gump, but after the Toronto Maple Leafs strafed Hodge for six goals Wednesday night and a 6-1 victory, the Canadiens may not be unloading Worsley so quickly.

Midshipman, 19, Collapses, Dies During Workout

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—A 19-year-old midshipman collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, Wednesday while participating in a cross country workout at the Naval Academy.

The victim was William H. Starnes, son of Col. and Mrs. W. L. Starnes of Satellite Beach, Fla. His father is an Army officer.

A Naval Academy spokesman said Starnes, in his second year at the Academy, was running on Thompson Field with some other midshipmen in a cross-country exercise when he collapsed. He was dead on arrival at the Navy Hospital.

Schmakel Named Grid Coach at Boston University

BOSTON (AP) — Warren Schminkel, who helped develop an undefeated team and an All America center as line coach at Rutgers, is the new head football coach at Boston University.

The 43-year-old Schminkel was named Wednesday to succeed Steve Sinko, who resigned a month ago.

The BU post will be the first head coaching assignment at a large college for the Ohio-born Schminkel. But he has a thorough background as a line coach.

Schmakel was head coach at Central Michigan, his alma mater, in 1950, served as line coach under Ara Parseghian at Miami of Ohio, then under Parseghian at Northwestern.

He came to Rutgers in 1960 after serving as line coach at Nebraska for three years.

During his second year at Rutgers, 1961, the Scarlet Knights were unbeaten. Their center, Alex Kroll, was named to the first team All America.

Edward Steffen's 245 singletons set the pace in the Bush Bowling League at Michiel's Bowl in New London. Frank Merson also registered a 245 singleton (563 set) in the Black Creek Major League.

Peck's holds the top position in the teams standings of the Bush League with 27 victories. Fritz Apitz cracked a 228 and a 564 to lead keggers in the Sportsmen's League at Michiel's Bowl in Sherwood Monday night. Wayne Grishaber's 557 and Don Vogel's 550 were the only other honor counts.

The Little Johns have a 4½ game lead over Dave and Marion's in the Sportsmen's standings.

Bob Krohlow's 608, including a 234, led the series scores in the Black Creek loop. Other top counts were Gene Barth, 581; Ed Sommers, 580; Bud Knaack, 244, 574; Barney Meyers, 581; Mel Crancorbitz, 569; Keith Barth, 566; Orv Zuber, 234, 565; Milt Zuleger, 560; Dick Fellner, 553; and Neal Payton, 552.

Dave Selvy Scores 25 Points in Fuhrman Win

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Furman's Selvy of the Sixties isn't Frank, but he's earnest.

David Selvy, who has stumbled more than once while trying to follow the footsteps of his brother Frank, hit the high point total of his career Wednesday night with a 25-point effort that carried Furman to a 74-63 Southern Conference basketball victory over Richmond.

Ten years ago, Furman's Frank Selvy was a month away from his 100-point output against Newberry, one giant step in the most fantastic single season ever recorded in major college annals. When the entries all were posted, Selvy had scored 1,209 points for a 41.7 average.

Three years ago, David Selvy came to Furman. The temptation was to label him "another Frank." He wasn't.

Held out of Action
He scored only 71 points in 16 games as a sophomore—Frank scored more in three quarters—then was held out of action last season by Coach Lyles Alley. And going into the game against Richmond, David had only a 13-point average this season.

But the 6-foot-2 junior had that Selvy touch against the Spiders. Richmond led 51-42 when David took over. He sank seven of eight shots from the field, put the Paladins ahead to stay 58-57 with four minutes remaining and wound up with 16 points in a torrid eight-minute stretch.

While Furman was winning its fifth game against nine loss-

Giants Bowmen Sent to Braves' Organization

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two catchers agreed to contracts and the San Francisco Giants sent Ernie Bowman to the Milwaukee organization as the 1964 season preparations began stirring at Candlestick Park.

Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney announced Wednesday that Tom Haller had signed his contract and Del Crandall had agreed to terms submitted. Crandall, pitchers Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley came to the Giants from Milwaukee in last month's trade that sent Felipe Alou, Ed Bailey and Billy Hoft to the Braves.

That deal was completed Wednesday when utility infielder Ernie Bowman was transferred from Tacoma to Denver in the Pacific Coast League. Bowman played with San Francisco the past two full seasons. Used primarily as a defensive infielder, he hit only .190 in 1962 and .193 last year.

Bowling Tips

BY DON CARTER AND MARION LADEWIG

Poor Timing Costly

The illustrated bowler has reached the foul line ahead of the ball. As a result, she has lost much of the momentum of her approach and must deliver the ball with only the power of her throwing arm.

This problem is usually caused by poor timing at the start of the approach. The bowler starts walking toward the line while carrying the ball, instead of stating the pendulum swing as soon as the first step is made. I discuss timing further in the portable pamphlet, "Control Tips For Beginners." To get your copy, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, Marion Ladewig, in care of this paper.

Jean Saubert, of U. S. Squad, Praised for Slalom Race Win

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (AP)—Jean Saubert, winner of Wednesday's giant slalom race at Grindelwald, won high praise today from one of the world's greatest skiers, Austria's Olympic gold medalist and world champion Toni Sailer.

"Miss Saubert is just fantastic," said Sailer, triple Olympic gold medal winner of 1956 and world champion of 1958.

He watched the 21-year-old Oregon State student from Lakeview, Ore., flash down the 3,600-foot course with its 49 gates and an altitude drop of 1,050 feet.

"Fantastic, great," Sailer exclaimed. "And in my opinion, she can go faster. I don't think she has reached her limit yet. She is strong, she is alert, and she has got stamina. That is what makes a great Alpine skier."

"I would bet on her to win the giant slalom at the Olympics," Sailer said. In Tuesday's special slalom Mis Saubert was unplaced because she missed a gate. She won one special slalom race at Oberstaufen, Germany, last week.

Bob Beattie, head coach of the U.S. Olympic ski team, was very satisfied with his squad.

Mongolian Cities Are Modern Cases in a Timeless Country

Land of Genghis Khan Undergoing Sharp Changes Through Agriculture, Industry

BY HENRY S. BRADSHAW

ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP)—The Mongolian horseman gallops across the prairie, his long pole with a leather thong loop at the end held out to catch a horse from his herd that races ahead of him.

The ear flaps of his fur-lined cap wave in the icy winter air, a sheepskin robe is wrapped tightly around him and high boots ride in stirrups. Finally he catches the horse, twists the leather thong around the pole to tighten the loop, and leads it back and ties it up by his yurt.

Then this Mongol cowboy goes into the yurt, a round ten with wooden frame, for a warming bowl of the national drink, kumis, made of fermented mares' milk.

Timeless Scene

It is a timeless scene. It happened the other day—but it also happened 700 years ago when the horseman was a member of Genghis Khan's army.

Since that army terrorized the western world, other scenes have come and gone on the plains and deserts of Outer Mongolia.

The scene today includes many new things besides herds-men on horses.

Modern Mongolia, a Communist-run nation known as the Mongolian People's Republic, is changing rapidly. Government owned agriculture and industry are taking their places in the economy with the tending of livestock.

The economic development is generally along Russian lines, with extensive Russian aid and advice. Mongolia owes its present independent existence to the Soviet Union. In the 1920s it became the first Soviet satellite.

Siding by habit with Moscow, Mongolia is now suffering economic effects of the split between Russia and China, its two neighbors.

For 1,700 miles northern Mongolia is bordered by Siberia. On its other sides Mongolia shares a 2,700-mile border with China.

Part of this border, separating Outer Mongolia from Inner Mongolia (which is part of China), runs through the Gobi desert. Its scrub growth and patches of gravel and sand dunes are the best known physical feature of Mongolia. But there is much more.

In 626,000 square miles, most 2½ times as big as Texas, there are broad, rolling prairies. There are low, forested hills and the vaulting Altai mountains that reach 15,000 feet.

Wandering over much of Mongolia are about 24 million head of livestock, more than half sheep. The two-humped camel of Mongolia still carries some of the freight. Most goes by truck on tracks across the prairies and deserts and a few stretches of prepared roads in mountains.

Livestock provide a predominantly meat diet for the 1,020,000 population. Mongols Rebel

Soon after Communists took control of Mongolia in 1921 they tried to follow the Russian example of rural collectivization. It took Russian troops to put down, with loss of thousands of wear western clothes. Their woolens were made here on machinery from Britain; their shoes on Czech machinery.

Relative Prosperity

The relative prosperity is striking to a traveler familiar with underdeveloped countries of Asia to the south of Mongolia.

The underpopulation of Mongolia, in contrast with soaring overpopulation in much of the underdeveloped world, is a factor. So is the solid base of the traditional livestock economy.

Mongolia's leaders claim the biggest factor is Communism. The country is beginning to show the material benefits of the violent remodeling of a generation ago and of having tied itself tightly to the Soviet Union.

Neither an experienced outside observer living here nor a traveler can sense any regret over the Communist course. There is no sign of opposition to the regime of the 48-year-old prime minister and party boss, Yumzhagin Tsedenbal.

There is, instead, a strong sense of pride by a spirited people in the way this historic land is moving into the modern world.

Autopsy Discloses Doctor Strangled

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A coroner says an autopsy disclosed that San Diego Neurosurgeon Dr. Alec S. Barnum, 40, was strangled before his body was dumped into a bathtub at his home in nearby Point Loma.

A neighbor and a maid discovered his body Tuesday, hands bound behind him and his face submerged in water.

Coroner Robert Creason said the autopsy showed bruises and two broken bones in the neck. The neighbor, Mrs. James Browder, said his $50,000 home had been ransacked.

This Is a Typical Winter scene at homes in the Fox River Valley as in other northern regions of the country. Not many ice formations have materialized this year, but as thawing and freezing weather occurs more will become evident. When the formations get large enough, children like to imagine faces and animals in the configurations of the ice.

Band Parents to Hear Professor Lecture Tonight

KAUKAUNA—Fred Schroeder, associate professor of music at Lawrence College conservatory will be guest speaker for a meeting of the Kaukauna Band Parents at 7:30 tonight in the high school lecture room.

A quintet of woodwind students from the conservatory will accompany the speaker. Schroeder is conductor of the concert band at the college, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, and received his master's degree at Northwestern University.

Before coming to Lawrence he was instructor at Sheboygan North and Appleton High Schools. He has studied in France, has worked extensively with music clinics and last summer participated in a music clinic conference in Hawaii.

Mrs. Arnold VanderLoop is program chairman and refreshments will be served under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Pockat.

Lawrence Asks City To Vacate East South Street

Lawrence College has asked the City of Appleton to vacate East South Street between Meade and South Lawe Streets. Marvin O. Wroldstad, college business manager, wrote the council property owners on South Street had no objection to the street vacation.

"There would appear to be no possibility of this street ever being improved for public use..." Wroldstad said.

He said the college, which has property on both sides of the street, would benefit if the street were vacated.

Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, 74, center, is helped by his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, and an unidentified aide after he had been taken ill at the annual conference of his Congress Party Tuesday in Bhubaneswar, India. A medical bulletin said today Nehru is making satisfactory progress. A slight weakness of his left arm and leg, as disclosed by his doctors, has raised the speculation that the Indian premier may have had a slight stroke. Apparently Sees Growing Sentiment in His Favor

BY JULES LOH

He insists there has been no change in his position that he is not a candidate, but it was his

Reform Program Mapped Out by Viet Nam's Chief

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Nguyen Ngoc Tho today outlined a reform program aimed at summoning all national forces to win the U.S.-backed war against the Communist Viet Cong.

In a State of the Nation address, Tho called for discipline and unity among his people. He promised them little. He said democratic liberty must wait.

"Resources of the country are highly limited and have been depleted and wasted in the past nine years," Tho said. "Pressing claims of the people who yearn for democratic liberty cannot yet be satisfied."

One major reform cited by Tho has been urged by American authorities in Viet Nam. That is what Tho termed "a thorough reorganization of the armed forces to establish a command system appropriate to wartime to use to the maximum all armed forces in pacification operations."

Soviet Censors Omit All References to Explosives Outback

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet censors today deleted all references to President Johnson's cutback in U.S. production of atomic explosives and his challenge to Russia to follow suit.

U.S. to Offer World Plan for Military Observation Posts

International System Aimed To Prevent Surprise Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration is drafting a proposal for a system of international military observation posts to be set up on both sides of the Iron Curtain in Europe as a safeguard against surprise attack.

It is understood officials are thinking about proposing 20 to 30 posts on each side at key transportation centers where unusual military activity by either Soviet or U.S. forces might be detected.

President Johnson announced in his State of the Union message Wednesday that "we shall make new proposals" on disarmament issues when the 17-nation disarmament conference reopens negotiations at Geneva in two weeks.

Agency Works on Proposals

Work is going forward on the proposals in the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency under the immediate direction of William C. Foster, agency director. He is expected to head the U.S. delegation in the new round of negotiations beginning Jan. 21.

Officials have said the U.S. proposals will deal with familiar issues in new ways which they hope will enlarge the possibility of agreement with the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, disarmament experts of the United States, Britain, Canada, and Italy are undertaking consultations aimed at coordinating their policies. France, whose chair in the conference is empty because President Charles de Gaulle decided not to participate, is an observer in the consultations.

Fail to Agree On Succession To Presidency

Ike, Truman Differ On Elective and Appointive Officers

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman disagree over whether an elected or an appointed official should be next in line for the presidency after a vice president succeeds to the office.

The two men, along with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., discussed the complexities of presidential succession in a series of filmed interviews, televised Wednesday night by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Eisenhower said that when a vice president succeeds to the office of president on the latter's death, the next in line for the top job should be the secretary of state, an appointed official.

Law Changed in 1947

This was the system until 1947 when the law was changed with the backing of then President Truman.

Under the change, still in effect, next in line of succession after the vice president is the speaker of the House, followed by the president pro-tem of the Senate, both elected officials.

Truman said he did not believe that any president should have the right to appoint his successor, as he would have if the secretary of state was second in line. He said he thought the successor should be a man who holds an elective office.

Truman said an even better method would be to have the Electoral College fill the job of vice president after the latter succeeds to the presidency.

Nixon agreed. He said the vice president who becomes president should be authorized to convene the Electoral College within 30 days to fill the vacancy.

Senate Group Acts to Speed Up Consideration Of Reduction in Levies

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Congress pressed by President Johnson to cut taxes, enact civil rights legislation and war on poverty is unlimbering slowly.

In a 41-minute State of the Union speech interrupted a record 80 times by applause, Johnson told the legislators Wednesday the nation can move forward under a new $97.9 billion budget to provide the greatest federal impetus to social welfare in history.

Reaction to the President's pledge of less spending and fewer federal employees was generally favorable. But it was tinged with bipartisan skepticism that the series of health, education, housing and job training programs he proposed could be carried out under a reduced budget.

Several Republicans predicted there would be a wide "performance gap" between what the President asked and Congress produces.

Group Works on Tax Cut

Urged by Johnson to move expeditiously, the Senate Finance Committee stepped up slightly the ponderous pace of its consideration of the House-passed $11 billion tax cut the President said is needed now "to keep the country moving."

It approved two provisions: a reduction in corporate rates from the current top of 52 per cent to 50 per cent for 1964 and to 48 per cent in 1965; a minimum standard deduction of $200 for the taxpayer plus $100 for each exemption including himself.

Civil Rights Hearing

But March 1 appears a better bet for completion of congressional action than the Feb. 1 date he spoke of.

The House Rules Committee already had scheduled a start of hearings today on the civil rights bill Johnson said poses a "moral issue."

The measure probably will reach the House floor early next month. Passage there would send it to the Senate, where it would have to await disposition of the tax bill.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., an old political ally, put Johnson on notice that he will face an all-out fight from Southerners determined to try to filibuster the measure to death in the Senate.

Johnson's call for action on health care for the elderly, first.

Test Expected On Health Care

Committee to Vote But Prospects Don't Appear Favorable

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, who appealed strongly for enactment of a Social Security health care plan for the aged, can have at least a showdown committee vote this year.

But, although Johnson talked up the proposal at five different points in his first State of the Union message Wednesday, there was no sign today that he had significantly reduced the odds against passage in 1964.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee—where the administration bill and its predecessors have been stuck for years—said he intended to bring it to a vote at this session. "We won't duck it," Mills said in an interview.

Mills Oppose Plan

At the same time Mills made it clear that his own opposition to the measure has not abated.

Although Johnson listed enactment of the health care plan high among the things he said "can be done by this summer," at least one Republican said he does not expect an all-out administration push for the measure.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, told a reporter he thinks that if Congress passes the tax cut and civil rights bills and perhaps some economic legislation that could be counted as part of Johnson's anti-poverty program, the administration will not press hard for more.

"They'll call it a successful session and let it go at that," Byrnes said.

Byrnes, who like Mills opposes the principle of financing a health plan for the Social Security pay roll tax, said he has heard of no basis for compromise.

Trapped Man Saved From Mine in Idaho

MACKAY, Idaho (AP)—Stanley Johnson, a miner trapped for 27 hours in a 12-by 6-foot cubicle 1,158 feet underground, was rescued Wednesday.

He was cold, tired and a little weak—the temperature in the underground cell was around 40 degrees—but otherwise okay.

Taken to a hospital in nearby Arco, the doctors looked him over, gave him food and sent him to bed.

Custer County Sheriff Glen Reed who drove Johnson, 38, a bachelor, to the hospital said, "He didn't have much to say. He was pretty cold but had enough room to keep moving around in there so he could keep from freezing."

Afraid to Blast

Justice of the Peace Art Wright of Mackay said "he got him out by drilling a series of holes through a petition from another shaft, then chipping out the area between the holes. They couldn't blast because of the cave-in danger."

"He was trapped around one o'clock yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon. He and Harold Lambert were drilling into the bottom of a slope—an old ore pocket—but didn't know it was that close."

"When they hit bottom, tons of fill came down. It trapped Harold for about 30 minutes, but he dug out. Stanley couldn't—there was too much."

Mrs. Oswald Planning Book

Marriage and Her Life in Russia to be Principal Topics

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Marina Oswald plans to write a book about her life in Russia and her marriage with Lee Harvey Oswald, the Dallas Morning News said today.

The widow, 22, whose business manager said Wednesday she had accepted as a fact that her husband assassinated President John F. Kennedy would get professional help in writing the book, the newspaper said.

It said a Grand Prairie lawyer, John M. Thorne, was to discuss the projected book with an executive from a major publishing company.

The Russian-speaking Marina has "picked up considerable English, enough to talk with you conversationally, but not enough to do a book," Thorne was quoted as saying.

Erratic Actions

Wednesday, Mrs. Oswald's business adviser, James H. Martin, said Oswald's erratic behavior made it easier for his widow to accept the evidence which police say proves he shot Kennedy.

Martin said Oswald had changed since returning to the United States from Russia, where he and Marina married. "He became more moody, more unhappy," Martin said.

Mrs. Oswald and her two young daughters remain under Secret Service guard somewhere in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, but are reportedly free to move about.

Earlier, Mrs. Oswald told friends she hoped to stay here and get a job. In Russia, she worked as a pharmacist when she met Oswald.

An immigration spokesman said Wednesday she would have to live in the United States five years before being eligible for citizenship.

High-Level Talks Aim at Solution of Malaysia Issue

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—A high-level meeting with Malaysian officials to find a peaceful solution to the dispute between Malaysia and Indonesia is emerging as the goal of current talks between Indonesian President Sukarno and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal, highly placed sources indicated today.

The sources, who refused to be identified, said the Philippines and Indonesia do not regard the present situation as an insurmountable obstacle to revival of Mapahinda, the association that Indonesia and the Philippines formed with Malaysia last summer before it became the nucleus of the Malaysian Federation.

4 Children Die In Michigan Fire

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—Four children—left alone while their mother went across the street to make a telephone call—died when a fire swept through their home Wednesday night, police said.

The victims were Keith Yancer, 3, and three sisters, Joan, 5, Marjorie, 1, and Melissa, 2.

Three other Yancer children were rescued by a neighbor who pulled them through the front door after smashing out the glass.

Waiting for Order

Robert Kennedy to Keep Cabinet Post, Help Johnson Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy says he will stay on as attorney general and do whatever President Johnson and the Democratic party ask him to in the presidential campaign.

Beyond that, the future of the 38-year-old brother of slain President John F. Kennedy remains uncharted.

Led Brothers' Drive

"I'll certainly stay on through the election," he said in an interview. "I don't know what I'm going to do when that's over."

Kennedy deftly engineered his brother's successful campaign in 1960. Would he do as much for Johnson, who fought John Kennedy for the Democratic nomination that year?

"I'll be available to work in the campaign," he replied instantly. "Nobody's said anything to me about it yet, but I'll do whatever anybody—the President or the Democratic National Committee—feels will be helpful."

Kennedy, until today, had made no statements for publication about his plans since an assassin took his brother's life in Dallas Nov. 22.

He looks tanned, healthy and more relaxed than he has since that fateful day. He has had time to rest, ski, be with his family and collect his thoughts.

The man who settled into the high-backed red leather chair for the fifth-floor chambers of the Justice Department had a quiet, subdued manner. But he was quick to smile, ready to laugh at a quip as he answered questions.

He was noncommittal when asked about a recent Associated Press survey which showed him second favorite behind Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota—for the vice presidential nomination.

"My one interest now is being attorney general," he said. However, he was obviously pleased that the Democratic county chairmen canvassed in the poll thought so well of him.

He was more outgoing about recent reports that President Johnson has his eye on Kennedy's brother-in-law, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver.

"He's a very able figure," Kennedy said of Shriver. "He turned in one of the outstanding jobs of President Kennedy's administration in directing the Peace Corps. He would certainly be qualified for the job."

He Makes Dogs Bark Back at Their Owner

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP)—John Tolson has struck back with electronic vengeance.

A few months ago, Tolson complained to Hayward police that dogs owned by next-door neighbor Dominic Magri were disturbing him with their howling and barking. Nothing happened.

So Tolson tape-recorded the doggy noises.

And, at 3 a.m. night after night, he played them back at full volume from a window facing the Magri home.

The Magri dogs don't bark when the tape recorder plays. They just listen to the recording of their own barking.

Now Magri has complained to police. Not to get Tolson arrested, he explains, but "just to set the record straight."

Codify Ordinances

Council voted to retain Attorney Ralph Lauer to codify ordinances for a fee of $2,500 not including cost of printing and binding, in about six months. The last printed book of ordinances is dated 1947.

The insurance committee was given permission to advertise for bids on the city's insurance requirements.

A letter of resignation as a member of the Finney Public Library board was read and accepted from Mrs. William T. Luedke, who is moving to another state.

Harrington Says Four-Year Program Inevitable in Valley

UW Head Promises Some Type Of Junior-Senior Plan Soon

BY JACQUELINE FIX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Junior-senior college programs in both the Fox Valley and southeastern Wisconsin are "inevitable," University of Wisconsin President Fred Harrington said in Appleton Tuesday.

Speaking after an informal discussion meeting with about 70 selected alumni at the UW Fox Valley Center, Harrington said the Board of Regents will take up the matter of four-year centers at a meeting Friday and will continue to discuss it until summer, when a recommendation for the next biennium is expected.

Dr. Harrington did not say which area would be given the nod for the first four-year program.

"I am sure there will be a junior-senior program — whether in a four-year center or some other way — in both southeastern Wisconsin and the Fox Valley area before long," he said. If the program is not recommended for the Fox Valley this year, it will be within the next few years, he said. "It is inevitable."

Valley Speculation

There has been speculation about a four-year program at either the Fox Valley Center or the Green Bay Center, or a junior-senior program to serve both Fox Valley extensions.

Commenting on the proposal last week by the Educational Policies Commission, a national organization, that two years of free public education should be provided beyond the high school, President Harrington said, "I would not contemplate this would happen in this state."

"Our financial problems are sufficiently great now," he added.

"We do feel college education does benefit the individual so much that he should pay part of the cost," he said. Theoretically the idea of continued free public education is quite attractive, but in the practical situation it is difficult, he said. However, most of the cost for the in-state student should be paid by the state, which will get it back in taxes in the future, he added.

Several Meetings

Harrington's meeting with alumni was one of several throughout the state. Alumni from throughout the Fox Valley and surrounding area attended a dinner and the discussion session following. Harrington spoke briefly on University goals and problems and answered questions from the alumni.

He told them the university expects to double its present enrollment of 37,000 by the mid-1970s and growth in the centers will be more rapid than at the Madison and Milwaukee campuses.

Fox Valley Center will double its present enrollment of 500 to 1,000 more rapidly than the Madison or Milwaukee enrollment will be doubled, Harrington said. Noting the large addition opened at the center last fall, he said there is "no doubt it will be enlarged again later."

Clintonville Area Seeks State College Campus

Mayor Sinkewicz Reports to Council; Meeting Planned With Shawano Leaders

CLINTONVILLE — Community governmental leaders and educator have launched a program intended to clear the way for development of a state college branch in the vicinity.

The Clintonville-Shawano area was designated by the state committee on higher education as a possible site of a branch of Wisconsin State College, Stevens Point.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz told the common council Tuesday that he and Director Harland Kirchner of the Clintonville School Board were at Madison in early December to meet with Dr. Robert DeZonia, a member of the coordinating staff representing state colleges, and Dr. Carl Runge, who represents the University of Wisconsin on the coordinating staff.

They also met with Angus Rothwell, state superintendent of public instruction, and Clarence Greiber, director of vocational education.

City Isn't Site

Sinkewicz pointed out the city itself was not named for the proposed area college campus and that construction of a campus requires a sponsoring group. It is believed an investment of $500,000 would be necessary for land and construction. The construction is left to the area and the equipping and staffing is handled by the state.

Steering Committee

To determine the attitude of neighboring communities, especially Shawano, a meeting has been set for Monday night at the Lake Aire Supper Club, Sinkewicz said. Attending will be the Shawano District school board, Clintonville District school board, Shawano Mayor Emil Juedes, Sinkewicz, Dr. DeZonia and Dr. Runge.

With Spirits Rekindled, Girl Returns to Hospital

Kathy Moeller, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhardt Moeller, route 2, Hortonville, went back to a Madison Hospital Tuesday. With her she took the certainty that a lot of people care about her.

The story of Kathy's fight against a malignant brain tumor was recounted in the Post-Crescent Dec. 17, as the plucky child was about to celebrate her 13th birthday anniversary. Kathy's parents hoped that her spirits would pick up if she received birthday cards. They felt she needed something to restore her will to live.

Post Purchase Of TV Station In Iowa OK'd

The Federal Communications Commission Tuesday approved the sale of Television Station KTVO in Kirksville, Mo., and Ottumwa, Iowa, to the Post-Iowa Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Post Publishing Co. of Appleton.

The FCC said it was approving the sale on condition that Roger C. Minahan, an officer in both Post Publishing and the Polaris Corp. of Milwaukee, divest himself of his positions with Polaris. This is because Polaris has interests in four other television stations. Mr. Minahan has already done so.

Post Publishing reached a purchase agreement in September for the station with the present owners, James Conroy of Ottumwa and Raymond E. Russell of Superior, Wis. The purchase price was $1,225,000.

KTVO-TV is an affiliate of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and broadcasts on Channel 3. It is licensed to Kirksville, Mo., and covers the twin markets of Kirksville and Ottumwa through a transmitter and antenna at Lancaster, Mo.

In addition to publishing the Post-Crescent and the Twin City News-Record, Post Publishing also operates television station WEAU-TV at Eau Claire and radio station WAXX at Chippewa Falls.

Victor I. Minahan, president of the company, said today that "purchase of KTVO is another step in the diversification program being followed by Post Publishing. We are expanding our investment and our operations into other media and other markets in order to strengthen the financial future of the company. The Post-Crescent remains the base for this expansion."

Lloyd William King of Ottumwa, who has been sales manager and executive vice-president of KTVO under the former owners has been named general manager of the station for Post Publishing. Minahan said that no changes in personnel are planned.

Now, Mrs. Moeller wants to say, "thank you" to all the Fox Cities people who took time off from their own busy shopping and baking and family time to remember her daughter. Over 2,000 cards were sent to Kathy — some saying "Happy Birthday," others, "Merry Christmas" and still others, "Get Well." The little girl's only wish was for a doll. She received eight — from strangers who cared that a child was frightened and ill at Christmas. There were other gifts too, and small amounts of money with notes saying, "Buy a doll," or "Use as you wish."

There were new faces saying "hello" in person. A group of Appleton Girl Scouts took Kathy a birthday cake and gifts. Old school friends stopped to visit, and strangers found their way to the farmhouse with wishes for her recovery.

Now, in the hospital, the little girl is again faced with the possibility of surgery. She'll be gone for quite some time, the doctors say. But in her heart, and in the hearts of her family, is gratitude and the knowledge that people are kind and loving, and know how to express it.

High School Would Have Three Programs Placing Students According to Their Abilities

NEW LONDON—A new three-track college entrance in any field, track curriculum program placing high school students in program would be open only to students with college ability, he said.

A student could change programs with the approval of his counselor under the program, Qualley said. He said there 130 in the same basic program, probably would be few changes.

Qualley said a switch to the three-track program also would force several changes in curriculum. He said there would be changes in mathematics, physical science and language. If the student fails to meet scholastic requirements, he can pursue a vocational course, Qualley said.

Shiocton School Maintenance Work Okayed

Three Projects To Be Completed Next Summer

SHIOCTON — Shiocton Board of Education has approved three projects to be classed as maintenance and completed next summer.

The projects include removing the library from the second floor study hall of the high school and remodeling and equipping the old lunch room on the first floor of the school for the library.

Second on the list will be remodeling of the old high school gymnasium, now used as a lunch room.

Marvin Obry, superintendent, said the ceiling will be lowered, two exits will be closed, new ventilating ducts will be installed, new fluorescent lights installed and the walls painted. The old floor will remain, he said.

Other Repairs

Besides the two interior remodeling jobs, the elementary gymnasium roof will also be repaired. "One-third of the flat roof over the class room area was repaired last year and now the gym roof is in need of repair," Obry said.

New elementary play ground equipment will also be installed, but the new equipment will not include swings or slides. Obry said it has been found swings and slides are considered two of the most dangerous pieces of playground equipment, he said.

The board also authorized purchase of two cots for the elementary school sick room.

Outside Use

The board also discussed allowing organizations and groups to use the school facilities. At the present time the gymnasium is the only portion of the school being used by outside organizations.

Obry was instructed by the board to prepare a policy to cover the use of other portions of the building such as meeting rooms and the kitchen by citizen groups.

Strelow was arrested after the parents of a 15-year-old Clintonville girl complained to police of the hour Strelow brought their daughter home.

Strelow was freed in December after posting $500 bond on a similar charge. No court date has been set for either charge.

Lawrence Says
North, South
Political Scene
Has Changed

Johnson Popularity Much Higher Than Kennedy's Ever Was

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Somebody is fooling somebody on the American political scene. Surely the southerners haven't suddenly given up their stand on "civil rights"—nor have the radical liberals in the north overnight become conservatives.

But if the Lawrence public-opinion polls are right, the south and the north have undergone quite a political change since Lyndon Johnson became president.

It doesn't seem logical that, just because Mr. Johnson comes from the south, the voters there now favor the "civil rights" bill sponsored by the Kennedy administration, while the "liberals" in the north coincidentally believe that President Johnson will defend and support the policies of his predecessor on labor relations and other issues which have caused businessmen to feel in the last three years that the Democratic party was veering toward socialism.

Both sides cannot be right about President Johnson's attitudes. Yet the public-opinion polls in recent days have shown a sharp drop-off for the Republicans and a big rise for the Democrats since President Johnson took office on Nov. 22, 1963. Last September, for instance, the Gallup Poll showed Mr. Kennedy with a rating of 58 per cent for the entire country against 37 per cent for Nixon, and of 57 per cent against Goldwater's 37 per cent. Today the nationwide showing in the latest Gallup Poll reveals Johnson as getting 75 per cent as against 20 per cent for Goldwater, and 69 per cent for Johnson to 24 per cent for Nixon.

Southern Change

In the south the change is even more striking. There, in September Mr. Kennedy got 57 per cent of the "decided" voters, in a "trial heat" against Nixon but only 44 per cent when matched against Goldwater. Today, in the south, Johnson is recorded at 70 per cent as against 24 per cent for Goldwater, with 6 per cent undecided. Against Nixon in the south, Johnson shows a rating of 68 per cent, Nixon 23 per cent, 9 per cent undecided. Immediately it will be assumed that Mr. Johnson is more popular throughout the country than Mr. Kennedy was last autumn and that this is especially true today in the south.

But on what is such a change based? Certainly Mr. Nixon hasn't said anything to cause the change, and neither has Senator Goldwater. The answer must be in the opinion formed in all sections of the country by many people that President Johnson will not support all the Kennedy policies and will eventually go over to the other side on many points.

No Justification

There is nothing as yet in the utterances of Mr. Johnson to justify any such assumption. The northern Democrats, especially some of the extremist organizations which boast of their "liberalism" and anti-conservatism, are taking it for granted that Mr. Johnson will base his appeal to the country on a wholehearted acceptance of the Kennedy policies. For politically speaking, he could hardly repudiate the acts and programs put into operation by the Democratic administration from Jan. 20, 1961, to Nov. 22, 1963, and still retain the support of all the so-called "liberals" in the north and west.

On the Republican side, incidentally, there is also found evidence in the north of a feeling that Mr. Johnson will turn out to be as "liberal" as Mr. Kennedy. Thus, some of the Republican political observers in the northern states have openly indicated their belief that Mr. Goldwater, an outspoken conservative, is no longer strong, that conservatism is less popular than it was a couple months ago, and that the time has come to turn toward the "liberal" views expounded by Governor Rockefeller and, to some extent, by some of the other aspirants for the Republican nomination.

Opposite Reasoning

But in the south and in some business circles in the north the reasoning is just the other way—that Mr. Johnson is basically conservative and, in due time, will turn out to be a genuine conservative. This would perhaps be more evident after the election, when he presumably would no longer need "liberal" support.

Is conservatism more of an issue than "civil rights"? Senator Goldwater himself thinks so. On "Meet The Press" last Sunday he told the TV audience that in the south the issue of conservative fiscal policy, for instance, is considered more important than "civil rights." The Arizona senator said:

"I will make a prediction to you. I believe that, when the civil rights bill comes to the floor, it will contain the public accommodations section. I think we will go through the gestures of a filibuster and the president will go through the gestures of fighting for the bill, but at a critical point a compromise will be reached where the public accommodations section will be dropped, with the approval of the president."

Northern Support

But wouldn't this mean losing the enthusiastic support of the Negro voters and of the various "liberal" groups in the north? Maybe the public-opinion polls will tell a different story then, and not a forecast of the result of a nominating convention or an election several months in the future. And the "state of mind" today is one really of wishful thinking—that the new administration here will somehow make vital decisions on highly controversial issues and yet satisfy everybody.

Amazing Good Fortune

Johnson Unchallenged In Publicity Field-Day

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has had amazing luck. It was as if the rest of the world agreed to take a holiday from the news so he could get the biggest possible, unchallenged front-page play. And he did.

And he's been free of the anguish that comes from dealing with Congress except for a brief hurly-burly with absent members when he twisted their arms to get them back to vote on foreign aid just before Christmas.

So he had the field pretty much to himself to make announcements and pronouncements. This was bound to end, like all good things, as it is ending now with Congress.

Cut Rate Utopia

Wednesday Congress got his State of the Union message in which he offered something for practically everyone. One conservative Republican called it a "cut-rate utopia."

There's nothing unusually ominous about that since it's just about what some Republican says every year when a Democratic president outlines his program.

But Johnson offered so much in so many fields that even a much harder working Congress than this one, which wants to get home fast for the 1964 election, would pass only a fraction of his programs.

He knew before he proposed them that, unless he fought for them, he would be accused of making only an empty political gesture. So he can be expected to fight. But it takes two to fight.

So from now on he will have to share much of the news with Congress. But that's only a start.

Return to Normal

The rest of the world, after being almost hush-hush for weeks, will have to return to normal with its murders, arson, riots, tensions, conflicts, confusions and usual insanities.

That's more competition for Johnson, starting any day now. Shortly after President Kennedy's funeral it became clear Johnson, with less than a year before election and therefore with a need to make the greatest personal impact soonest, would start aiming for page one.

He could have done that anyway, without really trying and with very little interruption from anyone else, since as new President everything he did would have been news. But he went away beyond that.

Police Warn of New Stop Sign

LITTLE CHUTE — Robert Nechodom, chief of police, warned citizens Wednesday to be aware of a stop sign which has been erected on Filmore Street at Wisconsin Avenue.

The sign was requested by neighborhood residents after several near accidents at the intersection, noted the chief. Future plans call for Wisconsin Avenue to be a through street from Sanitorium Road to Lawe Street in Kaukauna. Currently Kaukauna has one stop sign on Wisconsin Avenue to break the flow of traffic.

2 Cases Dismissed In Waupaca Court

WAUPACA—Two cases were dismissed in Municipal Justice Court by Justice George Whalen after motions by Dist. Atty. Gerald K. Anderson.

"Included were disorderly conduct against Peter M. Doyle, 45, Waupaca, and driving too fast for conditions against Eugene Hickman, 20, Schofield.

Teachers Get Weapons for War With Student Smokers

State Instruction Department Sends Lesson Kits to Schools

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Non-smokers clubs, frank discussions of cigarette advertising, and graphs showing the numbers of non-smokers as compared to smoking students are weapons being suggested by the State Department of Instruction in its battle against the smoking student.

The suggestions are included in an extensive package of teaching materials and lesson plans being shipped this week to state schools. The package is a project of the Wisconsin Department of Instruction and the Wisconsin Division of the American Cancer Society.

School authorities are being told in the Instructions for implementing the educational program within the schools that "parents, school and medical personnel have become increasingly concerned about the increase in smoking among young people."

Bad Breath

The material is designed to be given to students starting in the sixth grade when the student is first presented with the medical fact that "a connection exists between cigarette smoking and lung cancer," and that "smoking can cause bad breath and stained teeth."

Teaching programs designed for junior high school students will cover such subjects as smoking interference with athletic success "because it reduces one's endurance," and "nicotine is a habit-forming drug having certain bad effects on the body."

High school students will be given more complicated instructions supported by text book materials supplied by medical societies. Studied will be the numbers of deaths from cancer and heart disease as compared to the rise of smoking in the last 30 years.

"Teaching will likely be most effective," the instructions state, "if the teacher has a conviction against the practise and personally sets an example." Teachers are also urged to be alert to students who are quitting the smoking habit due to the classroom instruction.

Lecturing to students on the bad effects of smoking "is doomed to failure," the instructions said and teachers are being told "the decision to smoke or not to smoke is unlikely to be made on the basis of its effect on health."

Suggested as teaching aids are the formation of non-smokers clubs, presentations by representatives of a local medical society, exhibits and experiments, and panel discussions presented by selected school athletic stars and other leaders.

The department of education expects to have an evaluation of the teaching campaign after a year of use in the field.

Complete Questionnaire

To aid in evaluation, students will be asked to fill out a questionnaire before they begin the instruction and after the instruction is completed.

Questions asked in the form will determine the attitude of the student, first before he is influenced by the instruction, and then, after he has been informed of the dangers of smoking.

Audio visual aids will be made available to schools from film libraries of the American Cancer Society, the State Board of Health and the University of Wisconsin.

Inquest Set In Deaths of Two Youths

Fatal Brown County Crash Took Lives of Denmark Area Boys

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A coroner's inquest has been called into the Tuesday night traffic accident in which two Denmark area youths were killed.

Dist. Atty. Robert Warren said he asked Coroner Cletus M. Belisle to call the inquest into the deaths of Robert W. Pantz-laff, 16, route 1, Whitelaw, (Manitowoc County), and Bruce W. Gehrke, 16, Denmark.

No date has been set for the inquest, Warren said, adding he hoped it could be scheduled sometime next week. Warren said Belisle was in Madison today and would not return until Friday.

Purpose of the inquest is to determine whether a crime caused the deaths of the two youths, who were thrown from a station wagon that struck a utility pole on County Trunk MM in the Town of De Pere.

Five injured youths in the car were injured and are at Bellin Memorial Hospital. None were seriously hurt.

Warren said he asked for the hearing "to see the whole story gets out. I'm not quite sure if the whole story has been told," Warren said, "and I'm not sure what it will add up to when all the cards are out on the table."

The five survivors have been questioned at the hospital and have given statements. Warren said the driver, Wayne Knuth, 16, Maribel, "told us one story but the facts we have don't add up to that story," Warren said.

Knuth was given an alcohol test at the hospital after the crash and the test showed he had not done any extensive drinking prior to the crash.

Authorities said Knuth admitted he drank a half bottle of beer at home with his meal Tuesday night before the crash. The alcohol test confirmed his statement, according to authorities.

Knuth also admitted traveling 55 miles an hour prior to the crash, the legal speed limit on the road.

Subpoenas will be issued for the surviving youths, investigating officers, and "anyone else who might be able to provide information."

Chilton Tigers Will Try for 3-3 Record

EASTERN WISCONSIN STANDINGS:

BY DOUGLAS KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

CHILTON — After a holiday break of three weeks, the Chilton Tigers will hit the road this week to take on the Plymouth Panthers in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference basketball tilt.

The Panthers were playing good basketball before the holidays. The Tigers were an off and on team with only Jim Vogel playing consistent ball. The three-week break may have given the Tigers the rest they needed, and they could come back strong if they can settle down and play under pressure.

Plymouth holds a 3-2 record in league play while the Tigers have a 2-3 mark with hopes of winning to even it up for both teams.

Holiday Break
The holiday break gave the Brillion Lions a chance to recuperate. Before the vacation the services of Jim Ross, their top scorer, were lost due to an injury. This Friday they will play host to the Oostburg Flying Dutchmen.

With Ross back in the lineup to bolster the one-two punch of the Ross and Behnke scoring threat, the Lions should be in good shape for Friday's contest. Although the Lions have a 1-4 record they should do all right against the Flying Dutchmen who are tied for second with a 3-2 count in league play.

The New Holstein Huskies, with a 3-2 record, will play host to the Kohler Blue Bombers who have a 2-3 mark in conference action.

New Holstein, hampered by injuries stemming from the football season, have recovered to full strength. The Blue Bombers have the taller team but New Holstein with its well-balanced scoring threat should continue its winning ways.

Face Elkhart Lake

The conference leaders, Valders, will travel to Elkhart Lake to take on the Resorters. The Vikings will put their unblemished record on the line against the 3-2 record of the Resorters.

Elkhart Lake was playing consistent ball before the break but the Vikings should be out to protect their 5-0 mark.

The Kiel Purple Raiders will be out to win their second game in conference play this Friday when they will play host to the Sheboygan Falls Falcons.

The Falcons dropped a hard one to Valders in a double overtime loss before the holidays. Since then they have had trouble getting started again but they should be up for this one with their extra bench strength.

does not accept the approach of some universities that, with the great increase in college age young people, only the best should be educated, the UW president said. "We feel this country rests upon the education of a great many people," and the university must grow to meet that need, he said.

The plan is to have more campuses, he said. Madison will remain the central campus and will have most graduate courses and most highly technical courses such as engineering, but total enrollment will be spread out more, he said. At present there are 24,000 students in Madison, 10,000 in Milwaukee and 3,000 in centers.

"The tough time is our time," Harrington said. "During the next dozen years we will double the number of students we handle but we will not double the number of taxpayers. It is a bad decade ahead in terms of paying."

"Unquestionably the tuition will go up," he said, "but I hope students will not be paying a very large part because we think education is primarily for the state, not for the individual." The state now pays about 35 per cent of costs, students 15 per cent, and the federal government 25 per cent, with the remainder from other sources such as dormitories, athletic receipts, and private foundations.

Harrington defended his support of federal aid for higher education. He noted in a current Reader's Digest article on the subject, he is the only major educator quoted as saying it is good.

"Wisconsin has received much federal money and the results have been good," he declared. The University has received federal money for 100 years, since the land grant act, he noted.

Farm Benefits

"The agriculture of Wisconsin would not be what it is today if it had not had federal money for research," he said.

Commenting on tuition costs for out-of-state students, now $1,000 a year, Harrington said it is anticipated as the number of Wisconsin students increases, the percentage of undergraduates from other states will decline somewhat.

The university feels children of alumni should be encouraged to come from other states, and would like to do something about the tuition in that case, he added. He mentioned a possible fund raising program so they could come at a lower rate, similar to a program at Indiana University.

Bus System

Discussing growth problems at the Madison campus, Harrington said the University will hold land it has, including farms seven miles out, for possible additional expansion. It is facing the time when it will need an extensive bus system on campus, he noted.

"Actually, the parking problem baffles us completely," he admitted.

Man Jailed 180 Days For License Violation

CLINTONVILLE — Everist Carl Gresser Jr., 21, str route 2, Rhinelander, received a mandatory 180 days jail sentence after being arrested for operating a motor vehicle after license revocation for the third time. He appeared in court Monday before Municipal Justice Nathan Wiese, who had Gresser transferred to Rhinelander where he will work out his sentence under the Huber law.

Waupaca County Sheriff Loren Frazier transported Gresser to Rhinelander. Gresser was arrested by the state traffic patrol Dec. 15.

School Building Plan Review Set At New London

Department Heads, Board to Study New Proposals

NEW LONDON — Proposed building program plans will be reviewed by high school and junior high department heads at tonight's board of education meeting.

Plans call for a three-year senior high school, an addition consisting of a study hall which can be converted to a music room at the present Washington High School, rebuilding of McKinley School and remodeling and enlarging Dale School.

The three-year high school would be constructed on the Werner-Allen site and the junior high school, consisting of grades seven, eight and nine, would be moved to the present high school.

This program could be carried out for $1.9 million, which is about the same amount listed in the last referendum for a four-year high school alone. The past two referendums have been turned down by the district's electors. The first was for a $2.7 million project and the second for $1.9 million.

Economic Reasons
Unofficially, the board has selected the three-year high school plan over the others for economic reasons. Eugene Fuhrman said at a meeting of the department heads and the board Tuesday night the building program's cost is one of the most important factors in presenting a referendum to the public. If it is too high it will be voted down again, he added.

Mrs. Marion Markman, board secretary, polled the department heads at the Tuesday meeting to determine if they favored a four-year or three-year high school systems.

Of the 15 department heads polled, five said it would make no difference in what type school they taught, three favored the three-year program and five indicated they would like to keep the four-year system. Two said they wanted to know more about the plans for the three-year school before making a decision.

Debate Issue
At tonight's meeting department heads will question the board on why they selected the three-year program and debate the issue.

Mrs. Markman said current plans are the most economical, that will best suit the needs of now the board wants to know if both parties, the child and the such a program is educationally sound.

Miss Gertrude Hoffmann, specialist in the home economics department at the University of Wisconsin, discussed "Picture Selection and Hanging" at the January homemakers' leader training session at Clintonville City Hall. ## Calumet Seeking More Foster Homes

Welfare Department Needs Place For Care of Two County Children

CHILTON — The Calumet County Public Welfare Department is in dire need of foster homes, according to Florence Woelfel, director.

The need is urgent for two Protestant children, ages five and seven, who are to be placed in a foster home in the county. Miss Woelfel said.

Miss Woelfel also stressed a long range need for a list of approved foster homes that could be called on when need arises.

There are legal requirements set by the state for foster homes, Miss Woelfel said. Much time is needed to conduct studies of homes for placing foster children to see if the homes comply with the requirements.

No Age Limit
Foster homes, she said, can be couples with or without children or whose children have grown up. There is no actual age limit to foster parents, she stated.

The department attempts to place a foster child in a home place that will best suit the needs of the child and the child and the such a program is educationally sound.

Johnson Ties Himself to Kennedy Slate

BY JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — For better or worse, President Johnson has tied himself to his predecessor's political formula of trying to weld liberal, labor and minority support into a winning combination.
In a State of the Union message calling for congressional action on a wide range of social welfare legislation, the President links himself to the programs of the late John F. Kennedy while adding some of his own.

President Concerned
This is designed to demonstrate to the citizens of the large industrial states plagued by slums, poverty and unemployment that the President is vitally concerned with doing something about their problems. It is not coincidental that these states will cast heavy electoral votes in November.

At the same time, Johnson has displayed an intention to keep a foot in the middle of the political road by spotlighting executive efforts to hold down on federal spending. This is regarded as sure-fire in its appeal to the more conservative South and Midwest.

Critical Period
As he starts the first critical months of 1964, Johnson obviously has a reservoir of political good will in Congress and the country.

State of the Union Message

There were a number of significant aspects of President Johnson's State of the Union Message to Congress.

First, it was short. 2,900 words, the shortest in fact which has been delivered since 1934.

Secondly, there was a surprise in the estimate of federal spending for the next fiscal year. The budget will call for $97.9 billion, comfortably below the President's announced target of $100 billion. And with revenues forecast to increase to $93 billion, the deficit would be less than half that expected this year.

And thirdly, President Johnson bundled up a whole package of proposals left over from the late President Kennedy and labelled them as "a war against poverty"—a phrase which is bound to have great political appeal in this election year.

It wasn't that there was so much new in his program. But the presentation was well organized and offered to Congress with the implied meaning that he expects action. He set a deadline, for instance, on the tax cut bill of Feb. 1.

On the No. 2 project, civil rights, the message removed any doubts that President Johnson will settle for less than President Kennedy demanded. Again he used a dramatic phrase, expressing the hope that this Congress will be the one "which did more for civil rights than the last hundred sessions combined."

One new proposal in the "war on poverty" bore a Johnson stamp, the request for Congress to set up special committees empowered to increase the time-and-one-half overtime pay rate in industries "where consistently excessive use of overtime causes increased unemployment." And on this one he may run into as much trouble as he will on Medicare and general federal aid to education.

Secretary of Labor Wirtz promoted this idea. He said recently that elimination of overtime would create the equivalent of 919,000 full-time jobs. This is another pipe dream of the economic theorists. No employer will lay out more money in consistent overtime that it would cost him to hire additional full-time workers. And besides overtime rates are the prerogative of collective bargaining.

In the foreign field there were two significant statements. The President said the United States will make unspecified "new proposals" on disarmament at a meeting in Geneva later this month. And he announced that the production of enriched uranium, used in nuclear weapons and small reactors like those in nuclear submarines, will be slashed by 25 per cent on June 1. The latter is a move bound to be hailed abroad. And he called "on our adversaries to do the same."

The real test of the effectiveness of a State of the Union Message comes when Congress gets down to business and evaluates the proposals it contains. It is generally expected that President Johnson may have more success with this 88th Congress than President Kennedy did.

He has been quite specific in what he wants. By mid-year we will be better able to evaluate what he will get.

Freedman Writes

President Johnson Gives Own Tone to State of Union Speech

BY MAX FREEDMAN

President Johnson's State of the Union message marks the beginning of a new phase of President Johnson's career. He now becomes responsible for a legislative program in a way which was not possible in the barehanded and emotional month which followed the tragedy in Dallas.

Freedman

It is no small achievement for President Johnson to have given his own tone to the message while carrying out his pledge to continue President Kennedy's major measures. He has returned to the tradition of President Franklin Roosevelt and President Truman in believing that the budget provides the key to the control of national policy. By placing such great emphasis on the budget, he has compelled all departments and agencies to explain and justify their programs in relation to basic national objectives. This exercise has enabled President Johnson to impose his directives on a variety of programs that would otherwise have escaped the direct attention of the White House. The sprawling organization of the executive branch has been taught more respect for President Johnson's scale of priorities by this procedure than it included Mrs. George Dobbin, vice president, Mrs. Erwin Hammen, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Clifford Lind and Mrs. Carl Abraham, directors. Mary Therens was to be installed as the new president of the New London Theta Rho Girls Club. Other officers for the year were Lois Steingraber, vice president, Lois Palmer, secretary, and Joyce Pahl, treasurer.

10 YEARS AGO Thursday, Jan. 7, 1954. Donovan Foote, Rush Lake, was elected president of the Winnebago County 4-H Leaders Association. The other officers for 1954 included Mrs. Viola Luebke, Town of Black Wolf, vice president, and Mrs. Henry Malchow, route 2, Neenah, secretary - treasurer. George Stone, Pickett, was retiring president.

Lyle Manley was elected president of the newly named Go-Gellers 4-H Club. The other officers were Bonnie Jean Tiedt, vice president; Judy McHugh, secretary - treasurer; Joan Haas, reporter; Marvin Dorschner, sergeant-at-arms; Mary Ann McHugh, song leader, and Janet Dorschner, recreation leader.

Robert Maves was elected president of the Lutheran Men of Appleton when the board of governors met that week. Kenneth Sager was named vice president and re-elected to office were Dr. J. P. Mohr, secretary, and Gus Lemke, treasurer.

Charles Caspersen was installed as worshipful master of Waverly Lodge 51, Free and Accepted Masons. His brother, Edward Caspersen, a past master, was installing officer.

could have learned from a more congenial technique. That it why he deliberately chose a method which sometimes looked like a shock treatment rather than an exercise in the art of government. His policy has the great justification of success. It gave him what he wanted, and it did so in the shortest possible time.

ONLY MERE BEGINNING

Neither his campaign for economy nor his attack on poverty is to be regarded as more than a mere beginning to a larger program yet to come. The actual savings which he has managed to achieve are less significant than the assurance which he has thus given the nation that he will exercise the most vigilant care to avoid all unnecessary expenditures in the future. His concern for the unemployed and for all who bear unjust burdens can only be described as one of the great purposes inspiring his whole administration. He wants to lay the groundwork in the next few months for the detailed program which he will bring to the country in the Presidential campaign.

When he was the leader of the Senate, he often told President Eisenhower how the legislative program had to be modified to meet the realities of Congressional opposition. He expects to receive the same kind of support now from his Congressional leaders to whom he is linked by a long-enduring friendship. His unrivaled knowledge of Congress will equip him to know at once when the opposition to his proposals rests on trumpety grounds or is inspired by a genuine difference over public policy. His critics in Congress should be under no illusion that his willingness to negotiate the common interest means that he is ready to obtain agreement at the surrender of principle.

The necessity of achieving a good legislative record in this election year will give President Johnson's planning sessions with his Congressional leaders an urgent importance which they have not known for some months. His sensitive respect for Congress will warn him of the dangers that await blunt interference from the White House. But leadership by a strong President can be firm without being arbitrary or unfair. It is that kind of leadership which President Johnson intends to display in coming months.

NO PAUSE PERMITTED

President Johnson has surely acted on a wise instinct in rejecting the notion that there is a pause in world affairs which forbids initiatives for peace. A pause can easily lead to paralysis unless it is used for constructive ends. Mr. Khrushchev's latest note should not discourage us from continuing the search for limited agreements with Russia. Basic agreements with the Soviet Union are still a long way ahead, and there will be many disappointments and reversals even in seeking a diplomatic accommodation on minor problems. But President Johnson correctly interprets the national purpose of the American people at this period of history when he places the pursuit of peaceful negotiations with Russia in the center of his program. The prospect of successful negotiation is strengthened rather than weakened by President Johnson's insistence that the United States must maintain its position as the greatest military power because we negotiate from strength, we can negotiate without fear and without any illusion that the cold war soon will end.

In an election year even the most solemn message on the state of the union carries its political overtones. But President Johnson's message has called the nation to tasks and duties that transcend the normal contentions of political warfare. We will descend in the next few months to intense partisan bitterness but millions of Americans must feel grateful for his lofty and reassuring appeal.

Mrs. Proxmire's Book Describes Experiences As Wife of Senator

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—When Sen. William Proxmire and his wife were married six years ago, there was culminated a romance as well as an effective political partnership. Few wives in Wisconsin public life have attained the professional skills of the helpmate of the senior senator from Wisconsin, as she shows in considerable detail in her newly published book called "One Foot in Washington."

Wyngaard

"Ellen Proxmire's book which shows some traces of the column she has been distributing in recent years to those Wisconsin editors who may be interested, is a chaty and informative review of life in the national capital from the perspective of a woman. The Proxmires' social life is evidently somewhat less extensive than those of many other inhabitants of the capital, but with an eye to the interests of the feminine constituency, the senator's wife writes to length about parties and receptions and the great and the near great to be encountered there.

THE TONE

It would be unfair to say that Mrs. Proxmire does not deliver a cheerful account — for she is obviously a happy and contented woman. Yet there appears a curious theme in the book, one that could be interpreted by critical readers as weariness with the pace of activity insisted upon by her husband in his never-ceasing anxiety about the ballot support of his constituents.

The life of a senator's family, to judge from this account, is a hard one and one constantly shadowed by the insecurity of elective office. One would expect to find some recounting of the joys and satisfactions of high office from such an intelligent and sophisticated writer.

Mrs. Proxmire, it may be hoped, won't be offended by the suggestion that her book has an appeal and a marketability because she is the wife of one of the most interesting men in American politics today.

There are intriguing tidbits about her husband, but all too few. Sen. Proxmire arises at 6:30, and makes his own slender breakfast of orange juice, whole wheat toast, and skim milk, which he consumes only after "strenuous calisthenics." He walks a mile and a half to a bus terminal, where he boards a bus although his colleagues drive their cars to government-provided garages at the capitol. Proxmire prefers the bus to avoid "wasting" the driving time, as his wife puts it. On the bus he can read the Congressional Record and other documents.

MISSING

These are staple items of human interest, although they are not exactly new. Most reasonably attentive Wisconsin newspaper readers have seen them in profile descriptions in the political limelight through five past state-wide campaigns for high office. Mrs. Proxmire could have made her book more interesting and more useful by providing more insights into the mind and heart of her senator.

Every public official who likes his job and hopes to retain it throws a backward glance at his constituency occasionally. But in the senator's case it has become a leitmotif, as the Germans might say. The anxiety and intensity of his campaign preparation was perhaps best illustrated recently by his announcement that he would speak at a town hall in Outagamie County on the night of Dec. 31.

That was New Year's Eve to the rest of the country, and it is probably safe to say that no other politician in this state, whatever his insecurity, would schedule a routine campaign speech at such a time. A couple of politicians of nearly equal rank with whom this reporter visited that night spent half an hour speculating about the incident.

Mrs. Proxmire has written a charming and graceful book. But it could have been far more interesting if she had described her husband and political associate more thoroughly.

Some Problems Simply Haven't Any Solutions

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Nobody ever died from overwork, but many from underwork; nobody from thinking hard and straight, but many from thinking soft and circular; nobody from grief and disappointment, but many from their inability to mourn and their incapacity to hope.

Harris

There are some problems with no solutions (a fact which the American temper is reluctant to admit), as, for example, the question of gambling; for whether or not it is legalized makes less difference than we think, since the evils on both sides of the matter seem to be exquisitely balanced.

Hell hath only one fury greater than that of a woman scorned — and that is a woman left with what she considers an inadequate divorce settlement.

(Speaking of that, she is usually right about it; for as one astute divorce judge remarked, "It is invariably the case that the amount I award is too much for the man to pay and too little for the wife and children to live on.")

Hardly any of us is without at least a trace of the seditious and subversive — so that, secretly, we are more pleased to see a towtruck pulling a disabled car of great cost and luxury than pulling a small, cheap model.

People cannot be attached by favors as much as they can be won by fairness: a favor conferred can be withdrawn or reversed at the whim of the giver, but the moral climate of fairness never changes, and claims the allegiance of those who can breathe freely only in that air.

Youngsters, in trying to throw off the yoke of parental restraint, should recognize that to go to the other extreme is also a form of slavery; over-reacting is just submission in reverse, and not true liberty, which always sets its own limits in accordance with reason and reality.

How women can chew over a party or ball at great length afterwards, while the men are oblivious to it all, was neatly put by Malcolm de Chazal, when he observed: "In mixed company, women practice a sort of visual shorthand, which, later they will laboriously and lengthily decode in the company of other women."

The portrait of a person we know well always seems to lack some important qualities; this is not the painter's fault, but the fact that portraits are painted while the subject is in repose, and it is only in motion that certain essential characteristics are revealed. In every field of inquiry, it is true that all things should be made as simple as possible — but no simpler. (And for every problem that is muddled by over-complexity, a dozen are muddled by oversimplifying.)

Sioux Indian Band Seeks Peace

100 YEARS AGO Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Jan. 7, 1864.

We find the following in the St. Paul Pioneer of the 20th inst.:

"We have received trustworthy information from Fort Garry that headmen of Standing Buffalo's Band of Sisseton Sioux recently visited Fort Garry for the purpose of asking the intervention of British authorities in making peace for them with the Americans."

"They represented their people as tired of the war, suffering from a great deal of privation and all of them anxious for peace. They asserted, too, that their band had been opposed to the war upon the whites and had fought them only in self defense, none of them having any part in any massacres."

"These two were accompanied, however, by a younger warrior who breathed nothing but war and desolation against the Americans. He was, however, pronounced a great boaster, a braggart, and was not thought at Fort Garry to represent any considerable number of Sisseton Sioux."

"These Indians gave to the officers of the fort a description of the battles with Gen. Sibley near the Missouri River, at the Big Mounds, according to which they were unwillingly forced to fight by apparent danger to their women and children. They fought desperately so long as was necessary to assure their safety."

"They unhesitatingly acknowledged that the Indians were whipped by Gen. Sibley and that they were glad enough to get away from him when their women and children had crossed the Missouri."

Court Office Head Named in John Doe Probe

11-Count Warrant Accuses Misconduct And False Swearing

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Raymond W. Fleming, head of the criminal branch of the clerk of court office, was named in an 11-count criminal warrant issued Wednesday by Circuit Court Judge John E. Coffey, magistrate in the current John Doe investigation.

Fleming, who observed his 56th birthday today said he would plead innocent and fight the charges in court. The warrant accuses him of false swearing, misconduct and failing to report traffic violations to the State Motor Vehicle Department.

No Foundation "There is no foundation for any of these charges," said Fleming, the brother of Milwaukee City Atty. John J. Fleming. Raymond Fleming, who was paid $13,907 annually, has been employed in the court system since 1950. He is considered a power in city and county politics.

The warrant against Fleming, Gen. Lyle Strahan, was the 11th since the John Doe investigation began in 1962. Strahan said Wednesday additional warrants will be issued for other persons "in the next few weeks."

The warrant against Fleming climaxes an 18-month investigation of the criminal branch of the court clerk's office by both the John Doe probe and Circuit Court Clerk Francis X. McCormick.

After Fleming's arraignment before Judge Coffey, the case was transferred to County Judge Christ Seraphim who continued Fleming's bond at $1,000 and set a preliminary hearing for Jan. 29.

delegation in Congress, it was learned today. Actually, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier of Watertown, and Senators Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire were the only members of the delegation who were personally informed by the White House of the appointment—and then they were told about it only a short time before the announcement was made public.

Ironically enough, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki of Milwaukee, who had originally included Rabinovitz's name among those he would recommend for the judgeship, did not know the interim appointment had been made until this newspaper's reporter informed him of it Wednesday.

Not Displeased "I am not displeased with the appointment," Zablocki commented. "The president could not leave the court open any longer. No doubt the recent request made by Governor Reynolds carried a great deal of weight."

He added that although Rabinovitz was not in his district, he felt sure the former administrator would have let him know about the interim appointment at least in advance of the actual swearing-in ceremonies.

Another congressman who had included Rabinovitz on his list of recommendations for the judgeship was Rep. Henry S. Reuss, also of Milwaukee. He, too, had to learn of the interim appointment from the outside.

Pointing out "the case load in the Western District desperately needs a sitting judge," Reuss said the Rabinovitz appointment would speedily eliminate the present backlog.

Senate Committee "I hope the Senate judiciary committee will promptly hold hearings on a permanent appointment for Judge Rabinovitz and I am confident he will be found to be well qualified," Reuss said.

Kastenmeier, who had been a Doyle supporter for the judgeship was informed of the Rabinovitz appointment about the time it was publicly announced.

The congressman had no comment. Also not commenting was Sen. Gaylord Nelson who was in London when the appointment was made.

One Wisconsin congressman, who did not wish to be identified, observed that the manner in which the interim appointment was made apparently bore out the belief of many in official circles here that the president

Radmila Lomsky, 17, is flanked by happy parents, Dr. and Mrs. Igor Lomsky, at reunion at Friendship Internal Airport after nearly 16 years. Long, D-Md., joined Lomskys in pleading for Radmila's release. (AP Wirephoto)

Stock Market Advance Stalls

Trading Active, but Prices Mixed and Changes Are Small

NEW YORK (AP)—The six-day stock market advance stalled early this afternoon around the level of its latest all-time peak. Trading was fairly active.

Prices were mixed, with most changes small. If Wall Street showed any surprise, it was that prices did not dip in a normal spell of general profit taking. Instead, the list remained on an even keel.

At noon, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 289.2—the historic closing high it established Wednesday. Industrials were off 1.1, rails rose .4 and utilities were unchanged.

Selective gains among motors, oils, rails, office equipments, drugs and tobaccos were the upside features. There were losers in the same groups. Steels continued to decline on balance as these stocks, highly favored in brokerage house comment, backed away on profit taking.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .91 at 773.55 while the Dow Jones average of 65 industrials, rails and utilities was unchanged at 271.45.

A report that Ingersoll-Rand has reached agreement to acquire Pendleton Tool resulted in an accumulation of buy orders which delayed the opening of Pendleton. It rose 7/4 to 25 1/2 on an initial block of 9,500 shares, later trimming a point from the rise. Ingersoll-Rand dipped nearly a point.

Party Needs Strongest Man "I also feel the Republican party has an obligation to nominate its strongest candidate and one who would make the best president—and I believe the two go together; that the man best qualified for president would also make the best candidate."

"I have thought that the best way to serve that end would be by not getting into the scramble myself, but by talking about issues and attempting to give leadership in developing a program against the present administration and for a Republican alternative."

"I've been around this track," he said. "I know what the presidency requires and what the campaign requires."

"Meanwhile I'm staying, not on the sidelines, but in the thick of the battle—a blocking back, you might say, or, to use a hockey term, the one who gives the assist. You know you get just as much credit for the assist as you do for the goal."

Expect Low State Insurance Load

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The new state sponsored health insurance program which will go into effect July 1 probably will have a lower caseload than most members of the legislature which enacted it last year expected. Revised calculations of the State Department of Public Welfare, charged with the supervision of the program which will be administered through a private insurance carrier yet to be chosen, indicate that the beneficiaries probably won't exceed 20,000 in a typical year.

and over age group will be with in the income tests of eligibility for the new benefits, or about 240,000 men and women in the state as a whole. But many persons now are receiving public assistance for health care or are otherwise covered by medical benefit plans, so the pool for the prospective new caseload is likely to consist of about 175,000 persons, he said. Of that number, it is expected that 10 or 11 per cent are likely to file claims in any one year. On that basis, appropriations available may be insufficient, Schmidt told his board, but he said other states have found that only about 50 per cent of the prospective caseload materializes. Thus the $6,000,000 a year now available is likely to be adequate. Moreover, the department has the power to reduce benefits in pro-rata form in the event of a fund shortage, he explained. The benefit program will provide physicians, hospital, nursing home, dentists, pharmaceutical and nursing services for persons over 65 who have incomes of less than $1800 if single, and under $2700 if married and living together. For those who have other insurance programs, the new public plan will be supplementary. Such claimants must exhaust their own insurance benefits before they will be eligible for the state plan. Under the state law which is written into the administrative plan, any person will have free choice of physicians, dentists and all other vendors of services covered by the benefit program. The administrative plan contains several features not generally publicized thus far, including the fact that there won't be a residence limitation for eligibility. Any person who becomes sick while living in Wisconsin will be eligible, as will any regular resident of this

Brown County Sheriff Reveals Jail Food Profit

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY—Sheriff William Swanson has disclosed a 20 cent profit on every meal served at the Brown County jail. Swanson revealed his meal profit at the request of Robert Johnson, chairman of the county board protection committee at a regular committee meeting. Of the 65 cents he is paid for each meal by the county, Swanson said 30 cents covers the cost of the food and 15 cents what he termed "operational costs" such as the cook, the records and other miscellaneous costs. Using Swanson's figures, combined with the total number of meals served, Swanson's total 1963 meal profit comes to $6,896 on 34,480 meals. In 1962, his profit would have been $5,962 on 19,247 meals. In his first year as sheriff, Swanson served 37,984 meals at a computed profit of $7,596. Never Hid Fact Swanson said he never tried to hide the fact he was able to make a profit on meals served in the jail. "I'm proud of it. I only wish I could make more," Swanson said. The sheriff said the reason he ran for office was to make money. "I'd have holes in my head if I took the job for the $450 a month I get," Swanson
